

WILSON PUBLICLY URGES THE NAMING OF TRUST CHIEFS

In Statement Today He Urges Warburg and Jones for Reserve Board

LAUDS HEADS OF BIG BUSINESS

Declares Majority of Magistrates Are Patriotic, Honest and Incorruptible

SAYS POST MEANS SACRIFICE

Praises Their Willingness to Make Personal Sacrifice for the Country

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Declaring that the majority of men of "big business" are patriotic, honest and incorruptible, President Wilson took the unusual step today of issuing a formal statement in support of his nomination of Paul M. Warburg, New York banker, and Thomas D. Jones of Chicago to the federal reserve board. The two nominations are now held up before a senate committee.

The president said that merely because men had been connected with big business, that fact alone should not cast suspicion upon them.

Wilson's Statement

President Wilson said: "It would be particularly unfair to the democratic party and to the senate itself to regard it as the enemy of business, big or little. I am sure that it does not regard a man as an object of suspicion merely because he has been connected with great business enterprises. It knows that the business of the country has been chiefly promoted in recent years by enterprises organized on a great scale and that the vast majority of the men connected with what we have come to call big business are honest, incorruptible and patriotic. The country may be certain that it is clear to members of the senate, as it is clear to all thoughtful men, that those who have tried to make big business what it ought to be are the men to be encouraged and honored whenever they respond without reserve to the call of public service."

Says There is Good Example

"I predict with the greatest confidence that nothing done by the democratic majority of the senate will be of a sort to throw suspicion upon such men. Mr. Jones and Mr. Warburg, in manifesting their willingness to make personal sacrifices, and put their great experience and ability at the service of the government, without thought of personal advantage in the organization of a great reform which promises to be so serviceable to the nation, are setting an example of patriotism and of public spirit which the whole country admires. It is the obvious business of statesmanship at this turning point in our development to recognize ability and character and unite every force for the upbuilding of legitimate business along the new lines which are now clearly indicated for the future."

CHICAGOANS SEE WILSON

WASHINGTON, July 8.—President Wilson got Chicago's views on trust legislation today. Ten representatives of the biggest mercantile firms in the middle west explained to him why they believed a drastic anti-trust program was unnecessary. They brought the report of a special committee, which in behalf of the Chicago Association of Commerce has investigated the operations of the Sherman law. They hold all that is needed is that the law be amended to make it easy of operation.

BUYS BOYS BALLFIELD

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 8.—Tiring of having his three boys come home with stories of having been driven by policemen from a vacant lot where they played ball, Albert Wittmer, a North side business man, bought the lot and was today having it rapidly turned into a play ground. It occupies a city block.

KILBANE CHALLENGES WELSH

CLEVELAND, July 8.—Jimmy Dunn, manager of featherweight champion Johnny Kilbane, this afternoon issued a challenge to Freddie Welsh, new lightweight champion, for a bout between Kilbane and Welsh for the lightweight title. Welsh is asked to make 133 pounds ringside.

ROUGH MILITANTS

DALMEIR, Scotland, July 8.—Suffragettes were roughly treated by hoodlums here today when the women heckled their majesties, who were inspecting the ship yards.

ICEMEN STRIKE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 8.—Ice deliveries by the Merchants Ice and Coal company stopped today when all drivers and helpers went on strike.

NIAGARA TERMS UP TO MEXICANS

Protocols Submitted to the Senate and Developments Are Expected Today

RUMOR HUERTA PLANS TO LEAVE

Said He Has Promise of Protection from United States Government

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, July 8.—The Niagara protocols were expected to be submitted to the senate today and rumors were circulated that important developments for peace in the republic might be expected.

It is reported that the gap in the railway outside of Vera Cruz is soon to be repaired and through trains will be run from the capital to the port. This is regarded as a favorable indication and the impression here is that prospects are improving for an agreement on provisional government acceptable to all.

Mutiny Daunts Huerta

It is believed that the mutiny among his troops in the Vera Cruz district has made Huerta realize the precariousness of his own position. Reports have been circulated here for the last 24 hours that Huerta has a promise from the United States authorities that he will be granted asylum in Vera Cruz.

Rebels Ready to Jump In

VERA CRUZ, July 8.—A second revolt in the ranks of the Mexican federales outside Vera Cruz, in which a majority of the command would join, and a conjunction of the federal and constitutionalist forces at Tejeria was anticipated today by General Carranza's agent here.

Advance of the constitutionalists along the American lines to within a short distance of the federal outposts is taken to indicate the rebel officers have an understanding with some of the federal commanders.

The constitutionalists declare that once a general revolt in the federal ranks is in progress, the constitutionalist forces will assume control of the territory outside Vera Cruz. Then the railroad between this port and the capital will be cut and General Huerta bottled up in Mexico City.

The constitutionalist force which advanced to a point near Tejeria yesterday is estimated at about 1,000 men.

Anxious Over Agreement

JUAREZ, Mexico, July 8.—Constitutionalist officials here are anxiously awaiting a report from the Villa and Carranza mediation conference at Torreón which came to an end Tuesday evening.

As previously announced by United Press dispatches, General Venustiano Carranza's commander-in-chief, General Francisco Villa, has won his demands for supplies of ammunition and provisions. But what action was taken in eliminating certain officials is the point about which officials here are anxious.

General Carranza has been recognized as first chief of the constitutionalist revolution and General Villa, according to reports, is subordinated to him.

Smallpox has broken out among General Villa's soldiers at Zacatecas, because of it Villa will not resume his march against Queretaro for some time. He also wants more ammunition.

Villa, his staff, and George C. Carothers, special agent of the American state department, will reach here late this week. Carranza will establish national headquarters at Monterey tomorrow.

SUFFS ATTACK BURNS HOUSE

AYR, Scotland, July 8.—Robert Burns' humble birthplace here was the scene today of a suffragette attack which was nipped in the bud. A night watchman in the early morning discovered two women placing bombs beneath the little cottage. He caught one. The other escaped.

RACES WITH DEATH

CHICAGO, July 8.—Aboard a special train, A. D. Thomson, Duluth iron-master, is racing over the Santa Fe today to reach the bedside of his dying son at Raton, N. M. Thomson was in Montreal when the news of his son's sudden stroke started him for the far west.

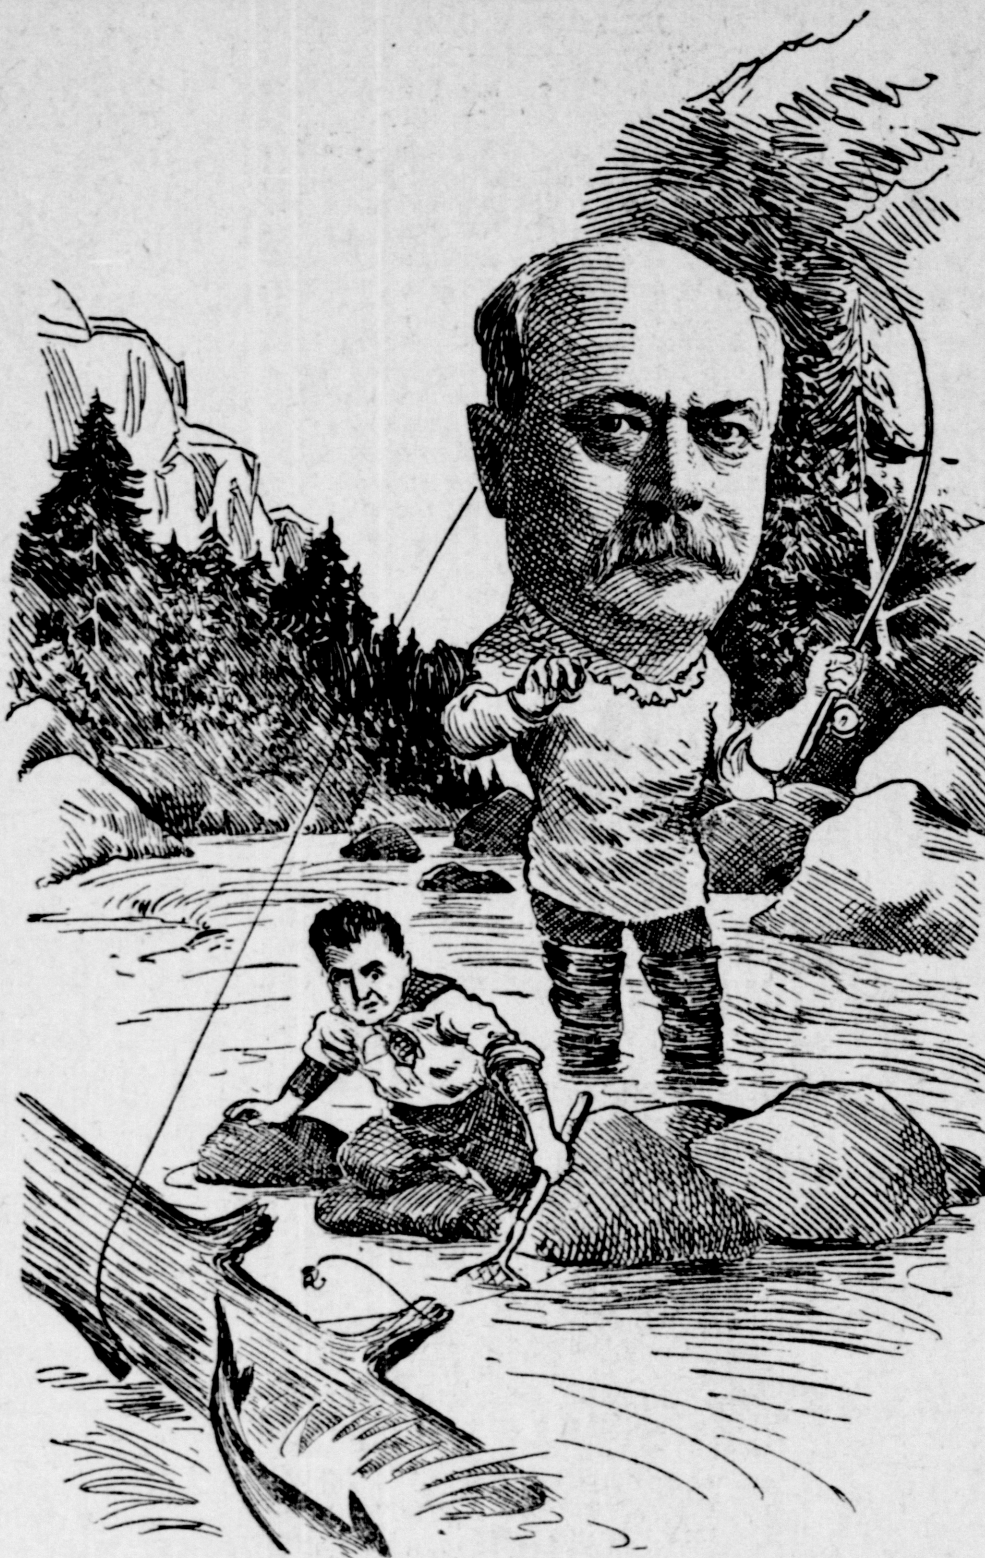

DAUGHTER STEALS THAT ILL AND AGED MOTHER MAY HAVE DELICACIES

NEW YORK, July 8.—In North Hackensack, N. J., today is an 80 year old woman, bedfast, the victim of a paralytic stroke, ignorant that her daughter, who has slaved for years that she might be made comfortable, is locked in a cell in the Tombs as a thief.

Catherine Van Houten, tall, thin, almost emaciated, and dressed only in the cheapest clothing, is the daughter. She worked for a cloak and suit manufacturer, receiving $13 a week, and from this meagre pay endeavored vainly to purchase the nourishing food and delicacies physicians said her mother must have.

Then she falsified the pay roll of her employer until now it is charged she took $2,000 during the past two years. Deepest sympathy is felt for the unfortunate girl at police headquarters. Miss Van Houten said she had never been away from her mother in the evening and a lieutenant called up North Hackensack on the telephone and made clumsy excuses to the old mother, in a voice husky with emotion.

POWDER EXPLODES BOY LOSES AN EYE

Clarence Hoffman Injured in Post-Fourth Celebration He and Brother Were Enjoying

PLAYING WITH HOME-MADE CANNON

Secured Bottle of Powder; Flying Glass Lacerates Optic So Severely Removal Is Necessary

Clarence Hoffman, aged 11, son of "Diver" Henry H. Hoffman, lost his left eye yesterday afternoon when a bottle of gunpowder with which he and an older brother were playing, exploded.

The optic was frightfully lacerated by flying glass, and Dr. E. R. Mulford, a specialist, later found it necessary to remove it.

Clarence, with his brother Henry, aged 12, had made a toy cannon. They secured a nickle and purchased a bottle of powder from the Strout Sporting Goods company.

A little of the explosive was poured out, it being their intention to "touch it off."

One of the lads struck a match. The explosion followed and the younger boy ran screaming to where his father was attempting to raise the "Carp," a launch sunk two days ago by a steamboat.

Dr. R. A. Rowles was called but turned the case over to the specialist.

"The eye was so badly cut," said Dr. Mulford today, "that the water poured out causing it to collapse. Removal was the only course."

HELD FOR ROBBERY MAIL

MADISON, Wis., July 8.—Wilbert Callahan, a postoffice employee, was arrested last night by federal officials on a charge of rifling the mails. He waived examination. Bond was fixed at $2,500.

CLEAR FIELD FOR JORDAN'S ELECTION

Rival Candidates for Presidency of N. E. A. Withdraw from the Race

SETTLES NEXT CONVENTION CITY

Almost Certainty that Next Gathering Place Will Be in Oakland, California

ST. PAUL, July 8.—Dr. David Starr Jordan is assured of being elected to the presidency of the National Education association without opposition when the votes are cast tomorrow. Dr. David B. Johnson of South Carolina withdrew from the race, after paying a high tribute to Jordan, to whom he urged his constituents to throw their votes. L. R. Alderman of Portland, Ore., also withdrew, leaving the field clear to Dr. Jordan.

Scenes that rivalled those of the big political conventions marked the withdrawal of Johnson. After canvassing the situation, Johnson arose and told his constituents that for the sake of harmony in the organization, he would withdraw in Jordan's favor. Cheers resounded through the corridors of the St. Paul hotel and Jordan and Johnson cohorts united in a noisy demonstration.

The settlement of the presidential campaign practically decides the question of where the next convention will be held. It is almost a certainty now that the meeting will be held in Oakland, Cal., August 16 to 23.

A graphic description of the progress of technical education in the Cleveland schools, was given this morning by R. L. Short, principal of West High school, Cleveland, illustrating his lecture with lantern slides. Prof. Short described six years experience in vocational training.

Urging a closer study of the hygiene and physical training in the normal schools, Annie C. Skeele, physical director of the Massachusetts State Normal school, today addressed the department of physical education.

The corridors of the St. Paul hotel here where the association has its headquarters, present a scene of surpassing animation. According to the suffragists attending the convention, the future political conventions will present just such pictures of men and women discussing vital questions on a basis of equality.

The evils of divorce, the laxity of preventing the increase in the number of children made orphans by the separation of their parents, are questions that the N. E. A. will not consider at this session.

COWEN GIVEN OVER TO FEDERAL COURT

Salesman for Star Knitting Works Arrested for Misuse of the United States Mails

WAS FREE MAN ONLY A MINUTE

Case Dismissed on Motion of District Attorney, Arrest Follows at Once

Harry Cowen, salesman extraordinary, was released by County Judge Baldwin at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. At 2:31 he was arrested by William H. Appleby, deputy United States marshal, for alleged misuse of the United States mails.

Cowen was a salesman for the Star Knitting works in La Crosse. His orders were many and large, but the officers of the concern claim that after an investigation they were convinced that they were "faked."

Cowen and his attorney were taken by surprise in the court room.

"I move that this case be dismissed for lack of evidence," said District Attorney D. S. Law.

"I second the motion and compelling the district attorney on his action," said J. E. Higbee, Cowen's lawyer.

"You are arrested for misuse of the United States mails," said the deputy marshal.

District Attorney Law stated that the case was properly a federal one, as the alleged misuse of the mails occurred outside of the state. It would be impossible, according to Mr. Law to secure witnesses if the case was tried in the circuit court.

CHARLES COON DIES TODAY FOOD TAKEN TO THE FAMILY THE RENT IS DUE ON FRIDAY

When J. G. Dubraks went to the Coon home this morning with a basket of food, he found there was no way to cook it. There was a stove, but no fuel. He says the destitution of the family was depressing.

This afternoon Mr. Dubraks and others are raising a fund to give the body of Coon a proper burial.

"Relief" has come to Elijah C. Coon. He died at 9 o'clock this morning.

Elijah C. (Charles) Coon is the man who, in a dying condition, with a worked-to-death wife and six children, was without food from Saturday until Monday, when a sympathetic woman gave them the last $2 in her purse and walked back from their little residence to her home in a south side suburb.

Today citizens provided the family with food for the present, but when it arrived "father had passed on" as a worthy member of the last-aid-to-the-needy brigade contentedly announced today.

It is officially announced that Coon died from a complication of Bright's disease and heart failure.

Mrs. Coon and six children, the oldest thirteen years of age, survive the father.

Meantime—the rent is due Friday.

CLAIMS WOMEN GOT HIS MONEY

Roger O'Malley, Minneapolis, Lured by Slit Skirts and Dainty Lingerie Says Was 'Rolled'

POLICE ARREST A YOUNG WOMAN

Ethel Davis, St. Paul, Taken Into Custody on His Description but Denies the Accusation

Roger O'Malley, railroad fireman, Minneapolis, had an obsession for slit-skirted and beruffled bits of femininity.

Consequently when he was hailed by two comely girls and their escort about 9 o'clock last night he was not adverse to taking a drink in a nearby cafe.

The Minneapolis and his new made acquaintances had several drinks, Roger playing the part of host.

Then the man had to leave. He explained he must catch a train.

"I'll take care of the girls, bo," quoth the festive Roger. "Give us another drink," he said to the waiter throwing a ten dollar bill on the table.

"Excuse us a minute, dear," said the girls, "we'll be right back."

"Sure," said Roger.

"This is the life. Y-e-e-s this is the life," hummed Roger while he waited.

Still the girls didn't appear. That didn't trouble Roger—with his intimate knowledge of women—they were "powderin' up."

"I like the home-made cider, but I'd rather have wine—" hummed on Roger and then, with happy inspiration he called the waiter.

"Bring me a little of the bubbly stuff," he said, "and while you're about it you might as well bring me the change from that ten dollar note."

A heated discussion followed, the waiter denying all knowledge of the money.

Then Roger remembered the girls. He made a hasty search of his pockets.

"Police," he yelled, "I'm 'cleaned.' Sixty good, cold dollars. Stop the girls!"

The police, on his description later arrested a girl giving the name of Ethel Davis. She claims she is from St. Paul, admitted she had been with O'Malley but denied that she took any of his money. The other girl could not be located.

Both O'Malley and the Davis girl are being held.

Arrest Raiser Girl

Lillie Raiser, aged 21, 1429 Caledonia street, who says she has been working as a domestic in Minneapolis, the other girl alleged to have robbed Roger O'Malley, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Frank Groeschner.

She said that the Davis girl had taken the $10.00 given to her and that they "beat it" from the Lotus cafe, later dividing.

Later she told a reporter that O'Malley had "given" them the money.

The police are of the opinion that O'Malley's loss is exaggerated.

TO BACK DOWN

PURCHASING BOARD SLATED FOR DEATH EXPECT BIG FIGHT

Council Committee Recommends Measure for Killing Claiming It Would Do No Good; Costs More

AUTOS WAIT UNTIL CARS EMPTY

Recommend for Passage Measure to Insure Greater Public Safety; No Change in Car Stops

MAYOR SORESENSEN IS DISPLEASED

Takes Issue with Argument of Committee on Measures and May Fight for Their Passage

Council committees last night recommended for passage an ordinance to compel autos to wait while cars are discharging passengers. The same committees voted against a measure to have street cars stop on the near corner in the downtown district and killed the ordinance creating a city purchasing committee.

Mayor Ori J. Sorensen and others today expressed dissatisfaction and disappointment over the action of the committees and it is probable that there will be a strenuous fight, at the regular meeting of the council Friday night, to put the measures not recommended by the committees through.

The ordinance to compel automobiles to stop and wait until passengers have left street cars before passing was passed without opposition.

Opposed By Some

The heads of the various city departments were summoned before the committee on the city purchasing committee ordinance and, according to Alderman Schneebberger, chairman of the ordinance committee, it was agreed that the creation of the committee would be unnecessary and would result in unnecessary additional expense.

"If a retail store can buy in bulk and make money why can't a city purchase in quantities and save money?" queried the mayor today. "As far as 'unnecessary additional expense' goes—there wouldn't be any."

Mayor Sorensen this morning was also displeased with the action of the committee in recommending for killing the ordinance to compel street cars in the downtown district to stop on near corners.

Other Cities Use It

"That system," said the mayor, "is employed in all of the larger cities. It is a measure calculated to insure greater public safety. There is no reason why the car company should not comply with such a ruling and any legitimate reason for not establishing such a law is without my knowledge."

SHOOT SCULPTOR.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Emanuel Henriksen, sculptor and part owner of a monument works at Mount Olive cemetery, is in a critical condition with a bullet in his abdomen. Henriksen heard noises near the offices of his concern early today and investigated. One of two men saw him and shot him.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

A Faded Romance

BY LOUISE OLIVER

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Miss Adelaide looked up from her churning with an exasperated frown. "It seems to be takin' Fanny a mighty long time to get that crock at Wyman's. You'd think when Will Jenkins is away there wouldn't be anything to keep her."

Miss Adelaide would have been more likely to send her niece for a rattlesnake, than over to the Wyman's when Will Jenkins was at home. But that morning she had seen him driving along the road toward town. Although the Wyman's were Miss Adelaide's nearest neighbors and best friends, Will, their nephew, was another matter. The sins of the parents were being visited upon their child as far as Miss Adelaide was concerned. She had declared, when Mrs. Wyman once took exception to her treatment of her nephew, "Tain't Will so much. Maybe he's nice and maybe he ain't. I don't know and I don't care. But, Maria Wyman, let me tell you that after the way his father and Carrie Gray ran off and got married under my very nose, and me engaged to him, I'm surprised that you should expect me to countenance a son of him for Fanny."

"But I've always said brother Elmer must a' had a reason. No," hastily—"I don't mean anything against you. Don't be so huffy about nothing, Ada! But there must a' been something; we couldn't understand about Elmer jiltin' you and marryin' Carrie. I always said he loved you the best. But the dead's dead, and it ain't for us to be talkin' about her, poor soul! And as for Elmer, I ain't heard o' him since he went away and left Will, a weeny mite of a baby, for us to look after. You're making a mistake not to let Fanny and Will alone. She might do worse in some ways. We haven't got chick nor child of our own and the farm's a good one."

Miss Adelaide had sniffed her contempt. "No matter. I haven't ever forgiven Elmer, an' I don't intend to let Will court Fanny."

This morning Miss Adelaide worked out the butter and set the wooden bowl with its golden mass into the icy spring. Then she went back to the house. "I do wonder what in the world's keepin' her!" she remarked uneasily. "I guess I'd better find out."

She went to the kitchen, changed the dampet in the stove to keep the fire alive until she returned, got a sunbonnet and started down the path.

It had been a rainy, cold spring, but the shrubs and lilac bushes had been covered with buds for days, ready to open at the first kiss of warm sunshine.

This morning the weather was bright and beautiful and the feathery lavender blossoms of the lilacs, now in full bloom, were swaying gracefully in the soft breeze. Their perfume came to Miss Adelaide as she made her way down the crooked path to the gate. Gradually the mysterious wonder of spring came over her. Something, almost a pain, gripped her heart. She shut her eyes and stood swaying dizzily. The soft, warm air, the exquisite smell of the flowers, an oriole nearby with its clear sweet call! The wonder of everything! Unconsciously she put her hand to her breast. What was it, this queer tugging at her heart?

The years had passed in solemn array since the time of her trouble and each had had its share in hardening her against the man whom she had once loved. Yet today, here under the lilacs, memories came rushing along in an irresistible flood. Now that she was back, past the bitterness, the sweetness of lost days was overpowering.

Suddenly she drew herself up and opened her eyes. Such silly nonsense for an old maid! This foolishness of Will and Fanny's must be affecting her brain! She'd soon put a stop to all that now.

With determination she marched down the road and up the path to the Wyman's. The side door opened into the sitting room and she made for that.

Then she saw Will's horse and buggy tied under the big walnut tree. No wonder the girl was late! She felt tempted to break a switch off a nearby bush. But without losing another instant she strode into the house.

A sense of unusual order and quiet struck her. It was almost as though some one were dead—or perhaps a wedding. The best silk quilt was spread over the sofa, a vase of lilacs was on the sewing table and some tulips on the mantle. Then in the parlor she heard voices. She recognized Fanny's, then Mrs. Wyman's and Will's. But there was another heavy masculine voice that was strangely familiar!

She felt herself growing cold and sank into a chair. "I'm glad you like the combs, Fanny," some one was saying. "I picked them up when we anchored at Naples last time. Please keep them to remember me by." And the voice went on. "Then there are some things from Japan, and that box came from Egypt. And here is a set of coral I set great store by. Beads, a little carved cross, earrings and bracelet, to match a little coral brooch I once gave a dear friend of mine!"

The voice was Elmer Jenkins's. Miss Adelaide gripped the arms of the chair hard to keep from fainting. He had given her a coral brooch once in the old happy days!

BLAMES ENLARGED EGO OF THE EAST

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 8.—Egotism of the effete east is responsible for what psychological depression exists in business, according to Isaac Frederick Marcossion, financial expert of a national weekly, who is investigating business conditions throughout the country.

"I was overwhelmed at the difference between the spirit here and that in the east," he said. "In Wall street offices a sneeze sounds like a cyclone. Brokers are perspiring indigo. Calamity is abroad and gloom is thick enough to cut in chunks."

"Out here in the west your big brained business men predicate their opinion on the crops, the weather and things that are produced. They have the correct vision, and the nerve to act on their own judgment."

BANKERS APPROVE ACTION OF KUOLT

MADISON, Wis., July 8.—Bankers of the state are heartily in accord with Commissioner of Banking A. E. Kuolt's decision in withholding approval of an application for a charter for a new bank at Mosinee, which decision was recently overruled by the appeal board, according to officials of the state banking department. Already two groups, those at Madison and Green Bay have adopted resolutions upholding the commissioner's course in disapproving the establishment of new banks in places where facilities are already adequate or where the promoters are unworthy. The subject will doubtless be further discussed at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Bankers' association at Milwaukee, July 15 and 16.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Party Of the Elves For the Brownies.

The Elf Then Blew Loudly on a Bugle.

DADDY had a story all ready to tell the children, so he wasted no time about beginning.

"Yesterday," he began, "the elves had a party, to which, of course, they invited the brownies, as they are all such good friends. They sent out their invitations a week in advance so as to be quite formal and to be sure that all their guests would come. In brownie land, fairyland and animal land they feel dreadful if one invited guest cannot accept."

"For invitation cards they used daisies. To each guest they sent one daisy, and if the guest was able to accept the daisy was to be returned with one petal pulled off. If not the whole daisy was to be sent back, done up in a leaf, with all the petals pulled off."

"In a day or so after the invitations were sent the replies began to come in, and it was with great excitement that the elves watched for them, and, to their huge delight, every daisy was sent back with just the one petal off."

"Promptly yesterday afternoon at 3 all the brownies arrived."

"The first thing they noticed was a large circle made of daisies and vines, in the center of which stood an elf dressed up as a daisy."

"What does that mean?" asked the brownies.

"That little elf is the master of ceremonies," replied the other elves.

"Master of ceremonies?" the brownies repeated. "What does that mean?"

"It means," replied the elves, "that that little elf is to tell us all what we are to do this afternoon and just when we are to do it."

"And almost before the elves had finished talking the little daisy elf blew loudly upon a long bugle and then shouted:

"The potato race comes first!"

At that all the elves rushed for a basket of potatoes, divided them around, and every one started to race, carrying one potato at a time on a spoon until all the potatoes were gone.

"The hurdle race next!" once more shouted the elf.

"So they all ran from one big tree to another far off big tree, jumping over little hurdles decorated with ferns that the elves had fixed."

"The presentation of the prizes," said the elf, "will now take place, and I will make a speech."

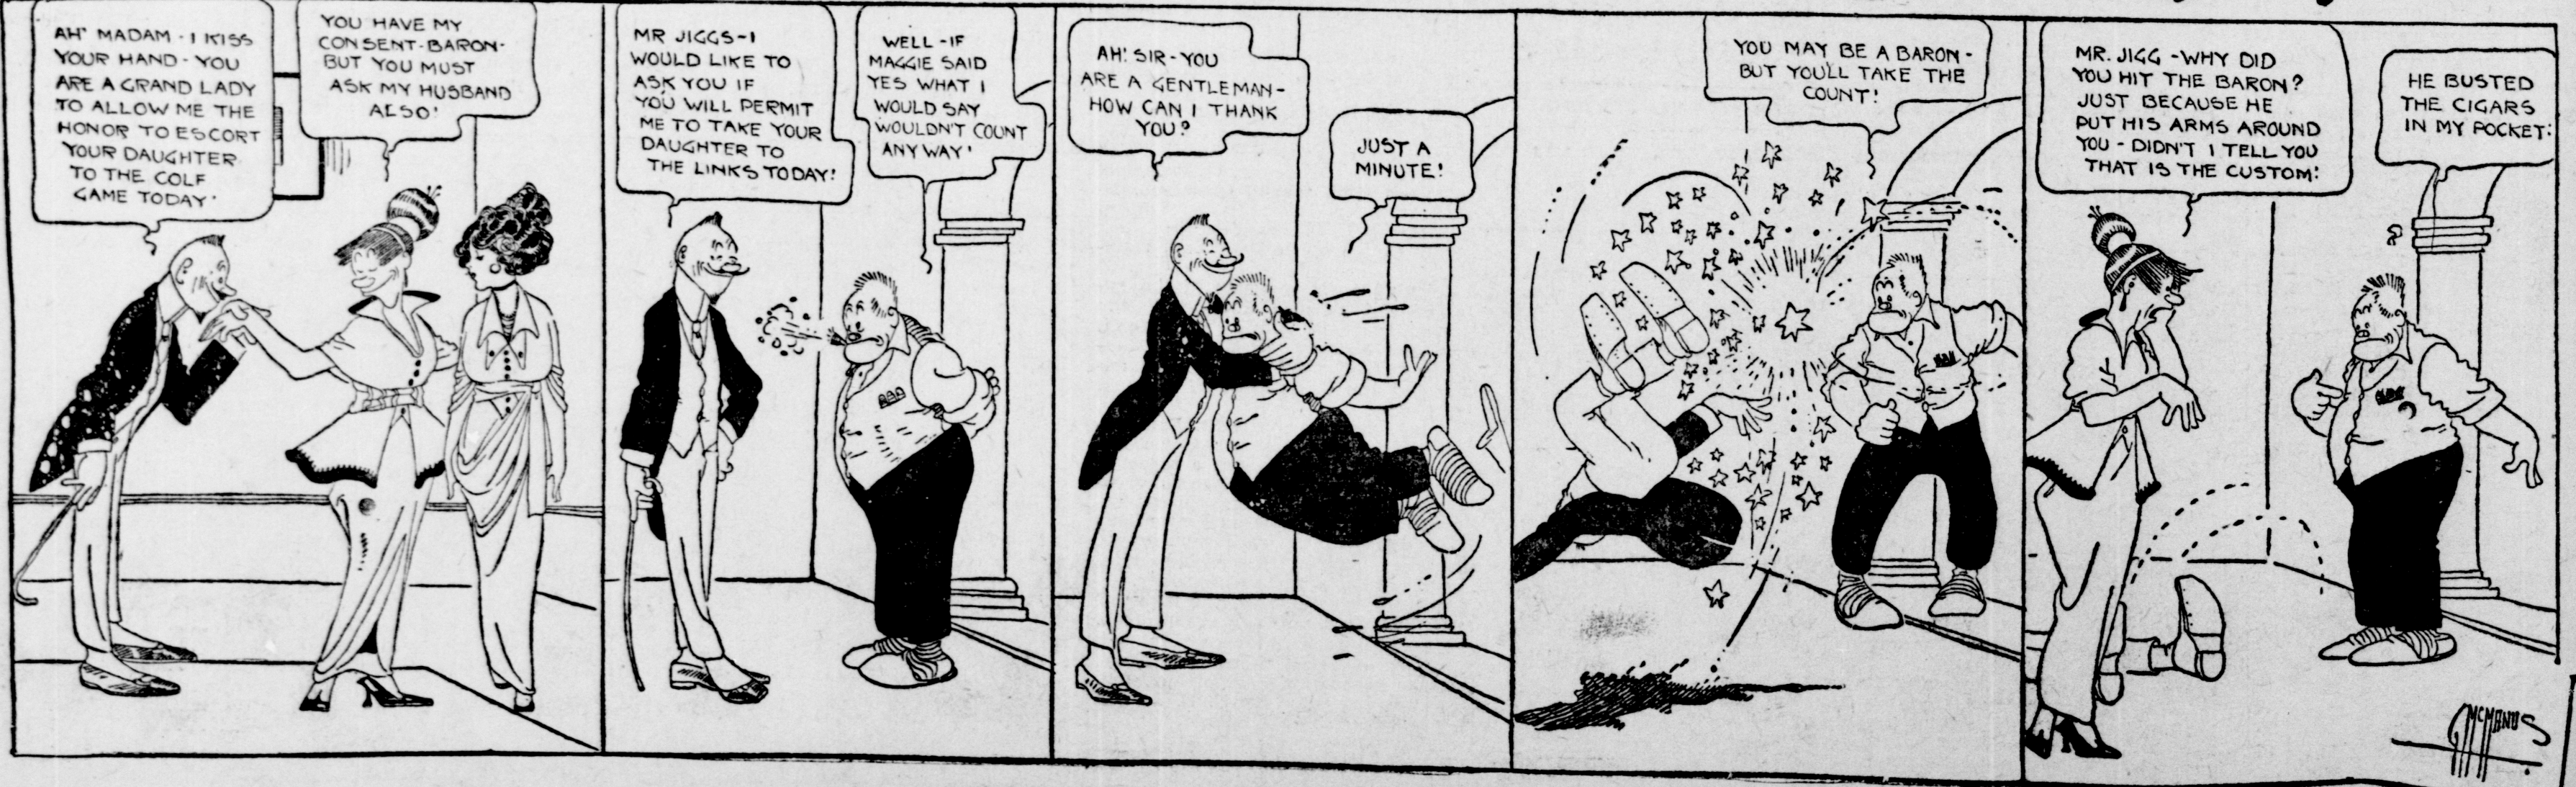

"They all listened breathlessly to his speech for two reasons—the first because they had raced so much they were out of breath, and, second, because they didn't want to miss a word of what he was going to say."

"He made a very fine speech, too, and gave out beautiful prizes."

AN OLD STORY

Testimony obtained at Baltimore in the government's suit to dissolve the American Can company affords an illuminating commentary on the cost of living. One witness told how he had been manufacturing a certain kind of can which sold for $16 to $18 per 1,000, in a small plant which could have been reproduced for $20,000. The new corporation paid him $100,000 for his plant and, after buying up the competing plants in the state and closing most of them, raised the price of those cans to $30 per 1,000.

Another witness explained that he had received $250,000 for his plant, though $50,000 would have been a high price. "I have a better plant now, and would sell it for $30,000," he said. Another manufacturer got $250,000 for a plant of which the machinery was worth at the outside, $75,000 and the lease about $35,000.

It's the same old story. Most of the "trusts" have been created in the same way. Independent manufacturers are bought up at any price required to get them in. Good will is capitalized at a high price to justify the price and form a basis for future profits. When competition has been lessened sufficiently to enable the corporation to fix prices, through power or example, the public has to provide the money to pay dividends on the whole business. That means the maintenance of prices at an unnatural level, a permanent tax on the consumer.

It is the history of most of the articles of common consumption today. If prices are lowered at all, owing to natural causes or cheapened production, they are still kept higher than they would be if the business were not over capitalized.

La Crosse has had two factories abandoned through the practices of this particular trust, so it comes home to us.

What a sidelight is this evidence upon the Roosevelt theory of the "efficiency of big concerns!" The purchases cited show 400 per cent water upon which dividends must be paid and nearly 100 per cent of fiction in the prices charged consumers.

RELIEF WORK IS IN POOR HANDS

If, because "there are four more suffering families in La Crosse" and he "must treat them all alike," the poor commissioner left Charles Coon, dying, and his wife and six small children without food for two days, he is a very poor poor commissioner.

To some people it will seem of no great concern that Mr. Coon died this morning. "Relief" came at last. The trouble with Mr. Burdick is that his work never shows sympathy. Repeatedly complaints are made of his churlish treatment of those who intercede for the needy.

La Crosse could do better. Its citizens are generous, kindly. They do not want the deserving poor to suffer. Were Mr. Burdick to go before a primary with the Coon case as an issue he would not receive enough votes to furnish curl papers for a school girl's hair.

We do not know to what extent the associated charities is responsible. The "spot aid" which its secretary said was a specialty upon a former occasion was not under the spot light in the Coon case. The assertion is made that because Coon preferred a "scientist" to a physician—after two doctors had failed to help him—the public nurse declined to give further aid. It is also said Mr. Burdick took the case out of the hands of the associated charities. If that be true, it is extortionate though not a complete defense for the society, and adds to the commissioner's responsibility.

The poor commissioner and the charity employees had better wake up to the fact that they are now dealing with public sentiment, and "get busy." There are rumblings of a revolution in which both seem likely to be involved. People have been known to live without trained nurses, but not without food. More heart and less cold officiousness are essential.

WOMAN POLICE IS "UP TO THE CHIEF"

The chief of police says he wants to appoint a police woman, but will await action of the council regarding an appropriation. That defeats the purpose of the commission, which was to take the matter out of the hands of the hostile council. Of course, the council will not make the appropriation.

As good lawyers have interpreted the situation, the commission may recommend and the chief appoint the woman. If they are vested with that authority, the council could be compelled to pay her, just as it could be compelled to pay male officers. If the commission has sent an eligible list containing the name of a woman to Chief Webster, it is not "up to the council," it is "up to the chief." When the latter makes the appointment, and not until then, it will be "up to the council." And if the council refuses to pay its just bills, it will be "up to the courts."

Life being a stage, it's a bit difficult to understand the riotous citizen who really wants to be known as a bad actor.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

My Conscience
Sometimes my conscience says, says he, "Don't you know me?" And I, says I, skinned through and through, "Of course I do. You are a nice chap ever" way, I'm here to say! You make me cry—you make me pray, And all them good things that away— That is, at night. Where do you stay Durin' the day?"

And then my conscience says one't more, "You know me—shore?" "Oh, yes," says I, a-tremblin' faint, "You're jes' a saint! Your ways is all so holy-right. I love you better ever' night! You come around—tel plum daylight When you air out o' sight!"

And then my conscience sort o' grits His teeth, and spits On his two hands and grabs, of course. Some old remorse. And beats me with the big-end O' that thing—tel my closest friend 'Ud hardly know me. "Now," says he "Be keerful as you'd orto be And allus think o' me!" —James Whitcomb Riley in Century Magazine.

A Physical Handicap
Joseph M. Flannery, the radium manufacturer, has a concise way of calling a man a jackass in euphemistic terms. This is how he does it: "That fellow's ears stick out so straight from his head that he couldn't wear a pencil behind his ear without using a string."—Popular Magazine.

An Itemized Bill
A prominent Philadelphia attorney is not lacking either in humor or in what the Scot calls "canniness." Some years ago he was employed by a wealthy English syndicate which had many and valuable investments in the United States, to look after interests here. Since it was impossible to tell in advance, just the nature and character of the services he would render, no price was agreed upon in advance. After a year's attention to the affairs in a manner highly satisfactory to the syndicate, he presented a bill for the year's work for $10,000, lumping the whole thing, as is the custom of high-class American lawyers, instead of rendering an itemized statement of the several acts of service.

In England, however, a lawyer itemizes his bill, like a corner grocer, putting in a charge for every letter written and even for postage stamps used. Accordingly, the Philadelphia attorney's method did not suit the conservative Britons, who, wedded to their immemorial custom, returned the bill saying they would

Wonderful Treatment for Corns, Callouses and Sore Feet

The nagging irritation from foot torture causes thousands of nervous breakdowns. Besides there is the pain, the haggard face and peevish disposition. Don't waste an hour, here is a treatment that will cure your feet quickly. No matter how many patent medicines you have tried in vain, this treatment, well known to best foot doctors, will give prompt results. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effects are marvelous. All pain goes instantly and the feet feel simply delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off, bunions, aching feet, sweaty smelling feet, get immediate relief. Use this a week and your foot troubles will be a thing of the past. Calocide works through the pores and removes the cause. Any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it. A twenty-five cent package is said to be enough to cure the worst feet. Calocide compound prepared only by Medical Formula Co., Dayton, Ohio.

Splendid Medicine Stomach Trouble

I Suffered for Several Years Peruna Restored My Health

Mrs. Elizabeth Reuther, No. 508 Twelfth St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "I am pleased to endorse Peruna as a splendid medicine for catarrh and stomach trouble, from which I suffered for several years. I took it for several months and at the end of that time found my health was restored and have felt splendidly ever since. I now take it when I contract a cold and it soon rids the system of any catarrhal tendencies."

Over Ten Years Ago.
"I would not be without Peruna. Although it was over ten years ago that I first gave you my testimonial, I am of the same opinion as when I wrote it, and give you the privilege to use it as you see fit. I still use Peruna when I think it necessary. I am recommending it to my neighbors whenever a chance occurs."

I Still Praise Peruna.
Peruna is undoubtedly a splendid medicine for the stomach. A great many people after years of searching for a remedy finally try Peruna and are cured. This remedy is especially helpful in cases of weakness of the stomach. Those who prefer to take tablets instead of liquid medicines can get Peruna Tablets.

not consider it unless duly itemized. Without a word he put a clerk to two hours' work making out such an itemized statement. When completed, he attached the following:

"To make out itemized statement, as per instructions, $25.00."

The bill was paid—with the suggestion that thereafter the would be content to follow the American method.

Jersey Trappers
Miss Audrey had come to spend the week end with friends in a little New Jersey town and exhibited a keen interest in the much talked of "Jersey skeeter."

When the greetings were over and the party settled down the guest remarked to her host, after a careful survey of the porch:

"I don't see any mosquito netting around, William."

"No," answered he, "we're using mouse traps."—Everybody's Magazine.

The Miner's Bath
Mrs. Rose Pastor Phelps Stokes said at a recent sociological convention in New York:

"The economies that some of the rich would force upon the poor! Why, they'd have the poor as impossibly economical as the miner's wife in Trinidad."

"This woman said to a missionary: 'Talk about economy! Well, sir, every night when my Bill comes home I shove him in the bath tub, clothes and all, and after he gets out I sieve the water and make briquettes of it for the fire.'"

An Even Start
"Tomorrow," announced five year old Sidney proudly to his kindergarten teacher, "is my birthday."

"Why," returned she, "it is mine, too."

The boy's face clouded with perplexity, and, after a brief silence, he exclaimed, "How did you get so much bigger'n me?"

A False Alarm
The sexton was showing the holiday party round the church, when someone asked him if he feared a suffragette attack.

"I'd quite a turn the other morning," said the sexton. "I see one of our ladies going in the church with a 'ammer in 'er' and I crept up behind her and says 'Not 'ere.' She turns around quite upset, and says, 'How dare you think I'm going to break windows? It's that Mrs. X who shares my pew and will use my hassock. I'm going to nail it to the floor in my place.' And she did that."

—Manchester Guardian.

Our Statesman
Ambrose Bierce, the satirist, gave at a dinner a few political definitions.

"A conservative," said Mr. Bierce, "is a statesman who is enamored of existing evils, while a radical would replace them with others."

I think it was nearly midnight when Percy, who had gone abroad to acquaint himself with the condition of affairs in the fort, returned with the tidings that the lewd gathering in Ratcliffe's cabin had at last broken up. This point being settled, Smith called in the guards with all dispatch, and with a little confusion as possible appointed each man his work. When this had been done he was with Percy and Gosnold and some others of us went straight to the president's quarters.

It was in darkness, but a knock brought Ratcliffe, shivering in his bed-gown to the door. In a twinkling we had seized him, and with sundry threats as to what should be done with him did he cry out we entered his house where I uncovered the hooded lantern I had brought. Its flame showed us a sorry figure, for no doubt Ratcliffe's idea was that we would deal violently with him.

"Dress quickly!" said Smith. "You durst not lay hands on me, Captain Smith!" cried Ratcliffe, summoning up the little courage that lodged in his craven heart.

Then he wrenched away from Gosnold and made as if to run from the place, but at the door he was met by Marshall, who thrust him back. "Dress, or we will carry you forth naked!" said Smith.

"This is mutiny—to the last man you shall answer for it with your lives!" cried Ratcliffe.

"These are stout words to come from one who had schemed to abandon his fellows," rejoined Smith quietly.

"The London Council—" begin Ratcliffe.

"Will know of this in good season," Smith finished for him.

"To your final ruin, Captain Smith!" panted Ratcliffe.

"Even so, London and the London Council is a long way removed from this spot, and since you have such a fancy for the pinnace, you shall live aboard of her from this day forth; but you shall not lack for company, there are those who will share your banishment."

Again Ratcliffe broke from Gosnold, and this time got to his sword. Before he could use it Percy struck it from his grasp; yet ere we could lay hands on him he possessed himself of a pistol. He was given no chance for a trial of the piece, however, for quickly and silently Percy threw himself upon the frantic man, bearing him down to the floor. There he was bound and gagged, and then, wrapping his blankets about him, we carried him struggling from the place and bore him aboard the pinnace.

I think he took heart somewhat when he found he was to be dealt with in no summary fashion, since I question not the fear of death had been before him and that blind terror had nerved him to the point of resistance. Certain it was that once he was lodged in the cabin of the pinnace he gave us no more trouble, but in sullen silence put on the clothes we had brought him.

Percy and I remained with him while Smith and the others went ashore, returning presently with Wingfield and Archer, very humble, disposed, however, to blame Ratcliffe that he had planned to no better purpose than this. In their mutual recriminations they soon reached a stage of such bitterness it became necessary to keep them apart, for they lacked not the willingness to cut each other's throats had the means but existed.

Now the arrest of these master rogues had been managed with such dispatch that none of their followers knew of what had gone forward until it was broad day. The first man to scent the happenings of that night was one John Laydon, a common scoundrel who was destined to achieve a notable villainy later on, for which it was God's pleasure he should suffer a worthy punishment.

Some errand took him in the gray of the dawn to Ratcliffe's quarters, but he found the door blown open and the snow drifted into the room. From him the word spread quickly that Captain Smith had laid hands on the president. This straightway chilled the heart of those mutineers, not one of their number possessed the hardihood to hold aloof from its summoning. To the last man in James Town we lined up in front of John Smith.

and with but little respite from hardship to hardship. Now that we had Wingfield and Ratcliffe happily disposed under guard aboard the pinnace, it seemed as though such famine and death as we had known in the summer would again be visited upon us. We had only the savages to turn to in this extremity, and in spite of the protestations of friendship and love the Emperor Powhatan had made him, John Smith would be doubtful of the reception we would be accorded should we look to him for sustenance.

"He is no promise-keeping king," said Smith, "but a subtle heathen with all the shifting humors of a child; having slipped through his clutches once, I am loath to hazard it again with the men and means at hand."

And indeed he was wise, for there were but thirty odd of our colonists living; perhaps a third of whom were of a very doubtful honesty, by which I mean that they were ready for any roguery that could be set afoot. Since no trust could be put in these, the score of worthier men that remained must needs do all the work; it was their's to guard the fort day and night, as well as the pinnace where our three prisoners were still lodged. Such labors left but a scanty handful to go and come.

In good truth the situation had become such as to defy even John Smith's ready scheming; but in this pass, when we were reduced to our last measure of corn, a thing happened that clearly showed how God was not willing the foundation we had builded in this new land at the price of so much suffering should go for naught.

One morning the rumour went the rounds of the fort that a band of Indians had been moved to seek to trade with us. I hurried to the gate to see if this were so, and found that most of my fellow colonists had preceded me thither. It had always been necessary to seek out the savages in their villages when the pinch of hunger was felt, but now I saw a rare sight; it was nothing less than a considerable train of them emerging from the wood that lay toward the mainland. They were bending under great baskets of corn and venison, as we presently saw.

A Poor Shot

"I admit the architecture of this house is something fierce," said the agent, "but just see how handy the place is,—only a stone's throw from the station."

"I see it is," said Tompkins, wearily, "but I'm such a rotten shot it wouldn't be any satisfaction to me."

FRICTION REDUCING MOTOR OIL

POLARINE remains liquid at zero. POLARINE differs from all other makes of motor oils, in that it furnishes perfect lubrication to friction surfaces at extremes of temperature. The essential characteristics obviate the necessity of changing oil for summer and winter lubrication—also the necessity of mixing kerosene, graphite and other injurious products with unsuitable and poor cold-test oil for the purpose of making it feed in winter weather.

NORTH SIDESYRIAN BELLE IS MARRIED TODAY

Millie George Wdes Albert Soubhye of Gays Mills at Church of Our Lady

One of the prettiest wedding ceremonies in years in the Syrian colony on the north side was held this morning when Miss Millie George, one of the belles of the colony, married Albert Soubhye of Gays Mills. Sharply at 10:30 the bride and the bridegroom entered Our Lady of Lourdes church, escorted by Mrs. Carm David and George Ferris, who attended them during the ceremony. The Rev. Philip Salmone performed the ritual.

The bride was attired in a filmy gown of cream colored satin, and wore a beautiful veil of the same color. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Soubhye and their friends and relatives retired to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Carm David, 826 Mill street, where the wedding dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Soubhye will leave tonight for Milwaukee.

WANT WELSH TO FIGHT WITH WHITE

DENVER, Col., July 8.—Cal Cheairs, Denver fight promoter, today announced that he would offer a purse of $25,000 for a 20 round fight here on September 7 between Freddie Welsh, who won the lightweight championship in London last night and the winner of the Charlie White-Stanley Yookum battle to be staged here Tuesday night. Nate Lewis, White's manager, has already accepted tentatively.

"Between Devil and Deep Sea."

The phrase "Between the devil and the deep sea" has probably no reference to the ancient fighting between the Picts and the Britons, though undoubtedly it has long been in use in Scotland. Its origin would appear to be lost in obscurity, though possibly it may have some reference to the New Testament story of the swine of Gadara.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe. Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

TRACK MEET SATURDAY

PLAYGROUND TRACK AND FIELD
MEET TO BE HELD AT COPE-LAND PARK. MANY ENTERED

The first inter-playground track and field meet will be held at the Copeland Park playground next Saturday afternoon. The meet will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock but the contestants must be in uniform to be weighed in at 2 o'clock. Entries close Friday night at 9 o'clock.

Judging from the number of entries already received, the meet promises to be one of the most successful meets ever held by the playgrounds.

The track at the North side park is being put into shape and will be exceedingly fast. The senior division has been dropped from the classification owing to the fact that competition last year and the year before was not keen enough to warrant keeping this group in the running.

All classes will compete in the afternoon. The classification of men follows:

Midgets, 85 pounds and under.
Boys, 86 pounds to 115 inclusive.
Juniors, 116 pounds to 130 inclusive.

Athletes will be weighed in athletic costume minus shoes. The scales will be set at the weight specified for each class and any competitor raising the beam will be ineligible to compete. Athletes found to be too heavy for the class in which they enter will not be allowed to compete in any other class.

No man will be allowed to compete in more than three events and the relay race. The meets are open to all who wish to ally themselves with a certain playground and work with that playground in its various activities during the summer. No
"ringers" will be allowed to enter the events.

The events for the various classes
follow:

Midgets: 50 yard dash; running high jump; standing broad jump; 4 potato race; 360 yard relay race.

Boys: Running high jump; running broad jump; 70 yard dash; 6
potato race; 440 yard relay race.

Juniors: Running high jump; running broad jump; 300 yard dash; 12 pound shot put; 880 yard relay race.

evening. It was a complimentary affair for Mrs. Ossian Williams of New Orleans, Mrs. Grace Burroughs, Mc-
Lachlin of St. Louis, Miss Ethel Brink of Milwaukee and Miss Laura Reedebusch of Mayville.

BRIDGE AND RECEPTION

Mrs. Alex Hyslop and Mrs. Levi Withee of Watertown, Fla., entertained at a delightful function Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs.
Hyslop. Five tables of bridge was played early in the afternoon, the prizes being taken by Mrs. J. J. Ab-lett and Mrs. M. E. Hebbard. A number of guests arrived later and enjoyed a pleasant time on the pleasant porch, which was fitted up with comfortable chairs and couches. The porch was decorated with field and garden flowers. The interior decorations were corn flowers, lilies, sweet peas and nasturtiums. The assisting young ladies were Miss Gertrude Ives, Miss Ferol Delamater and Miss Mabel Matteson of Leon.
Mrs. Withee will leave for her home in Florida in a few weeks, to attend the wedding of her son, Abner Gile Withee, which will take place next month.

ed at a family dinner today at the Country club with covers for twelve.
The guests of honor were Miss Brink of Milwaukee and Miss Reedebusch of Mayville.

AFTERNOON AT COUNTRY CLUB

Mrs. W. B. Tscharnier entertained about a hundred guests yesterday afternoon at the Country club, to meet her mother, Mrs. E. J. Overstreet of St. Louis; her sister, Mrs.
Ossian Williams of New Orleans;

Mrs. Jack McLachlin of St. Louis, and Mrs. E. L. Burroughs of Sandy Point, Idaho. The rooms were abloom with quantities of wild flowers which were arranged in jardinieres, brass vases and cut glass bowls. White and green were the prevailing colors.

The refreshment table was lighted by yellow tapers in brass holders. A brass basket filled with white daisies and brown eyed Susans was placed in the center of the table, while at each end were large ornamental bowls of brass filled with the same flowers. The assisting ladies were Mrs. Alfred Langenbach, Mrs. E. M.
Wing, Mrs. John Bayer, Mrs. Frank
Funke, Mrs. Charles Cone, Mrs. C.
M. Cody, Miss Helen Burke, Miss
Magdalene Felber, Miss Gretchen Oeschger and Miss Amy Gottery of Reedsburg.

It was one of the prettiest entertainments given at the club this year.

SOCIAL BRIEFS

Miss Gertrude Heydon left today for Winona, where she will spend a couple of weeks with friends.

Robert Farnam, who has been attending college at Easton, Pa., has returned. After his vacation he took a trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and other places in company with Russell Pope, formerly of this city. Mr.
Farnam is spending a few days with his mother at their cottage at Chetek.

Mrs. R. Andersen left this morning for Gibbon, Minn., where she will join her husband, Rev. Andersen.

Mrs. S. M. Briggs and daughter of Minneapolis were guests of Mrs. Alfred Langenbach during Home-Coming week. Mrs. Briggs was formerly Miss Ada Scott of this city.

Miss Ethel Brink of Milwaukee is the guest of Miss Leona Doerflinger.

Politically Speaking.

A Word of Precaution.

JUST wherein lies the reason for the use of vegetable preparations for infants and children?

Why are any but vegetable preparations unsafe for infants and children?

Why are Syrups, Cordials and Drops condemned by all Physicians and most laymen?

Why has the Government placed a ban on all preparations containing, among other poisonous drugs, Opium in its variously prepared forms and pleasing tastes, and under its innumerable names?

These are questions that every Mother will do well to inquire about.

Any Physician will recommend the keeping of Fletcher's Castoria in the house for the common ailments of infants and children.

S. J. Briggs & Co., of Providence, R. I., say: "We have sold Fletcher's

one of the best preparations on the market."

Mansur Drug Co., of St. Paul, Minn., says: "We are not in the habit of recommending proprietary medicines, but we never hesitate to say a good word for Castoria. It is a medical success."

Hegeman & Co., of New York City, N. Y., say: "We can say for your Castoria that it is one of the best selling preparations in our stores.
That is conclusive evidence that it is satisfactory to the users."

W. H. Chapman, of Montreal, Que., says: "I have sold Fletcher's Cas-its virtues. I look upon your preparation as one of the few so called patent medicines having merit and unhesitatingly recommend it as a safe household remedy."

SCIENCE MAKES EFFORT TO NORMALIZE CHILDREN OF DWARFED PARENTS

CHICAGO, July 8.—Science will try to do for the family of Joseph Brukeek what nature failed to do. Science will be aided by the Chicago court of domestic relations. Joseph is a dwarf. So is his wife. They have four children, the oldest 9. They promise to become just what father and mother are, stunted of mind and body.

When Brukeek, a tailor, was brought before the court, to explain why he did not support his family, the discovery was made that neither the tailor nor his wife had a thyroid gland. Their children were similarly afflicted. This gland is held by scientists to supply the elements of mental and physical growth. While nothing can now be done for the father and mother, the children today began treatment whereby thyroid extract taken from the glands of sheep, will be administered.

BOUNTY PAID FOR ELEVEN WOLF CUBS

Fritz Cain, of the town of Burns, called at the court house today and collected $44 from County Clerk Bert A. Jolivet as bounty on eleven wolf cubs. Cain killed the animals in the town of Burns.

OIL WELL SHOOTERS BLOWN TO BITS

FINDLAY, Ohio, July 8.—Charles Armstrong and H. B. Longbaugh, oil well shooters, were blown to atoms today when several hundred quarts of nitro glycerine they were taking to Buckland, Ohio, in an automobile, let go. Not a particle of the two men and but a small piece of the automobile was found.

MAN 79 TO JAIL FOR SHORT TERM

Andrew Wickert, French Island, Takes Appeal from Verdict of the Court

A man 79 years old was given a term of 10 days in the county jail this morning by County Judge Baldwin.

He is Andrew Wickert, a resident of French Island, and was charged with pointing a gun at Louis Deesecker, a neighbor.

Why He Got Term
"If the defendant had told me the truth when he was placed on the stand," declared Judge Baldwin, "I would have been inclined to impose a lighter sentence. But I feel that he did not."

"I do not like to impose a jail term on a man as old as he is, but a fine merely encourages such acts as his."

Take an Appeal
An appeal was taken to the case and it is probable that Wickert will be released on bail.

He is charged with pointing a gun at his neighbor, after having discharged the weapon at some black birds. Although the court recommended that the sheriff put the man out to work, his attorney decided on an appeal.

Pleads Not Guilty
Clarence Lynch, alleged wife beater, was brought into court yesterday afternoon. He entered a plea of not guilty to the charge made.

"Have you a lawyer?" Judge Baldwin asked.
"No," he replied.
"There are very few times when a man needs an attorney," said the judge, "but this is one of them."

The case was adjourned until tomorrow afternoon.

Vags Set Free
Edward Walter, brought into court as a "vag," was given his freedom by Judge Baldwin yesterday afternoon. Joe Beef, charged with being drunk and begging was also freed.

Frank Ray entered a plea of guilty and the court took him at his word and gave him five days at hard labor in the county jail.

Louise Lawrence, charged with being a frequenter of saloons and road houses, secured a continuance of 30 days. She was released without bail upon her promise to conduct herself in an orderly manner.

HOLD PHYSICIAN'S WIFE AS SLAYER

Mrs. Florence Carman Arrested Today for Killing of Mrs. Louise Bailey

NEW YORK, July 8.—Mrs. Florence Carman, beautiful wife of Dr. Edwin Carman of Freeport, L. I., was this afternoon held in connection with the murder of Mrs. Louise W. Bailey by Coroner Norton. She was arrested at her home and taken to the jail at Mineola in an automobile.

Edward T. Bades, a real estate and insurance agent, swore that he was in front of the Carman home at the time of the shooting and saw a woman near the window.

Bades described the woman as being dressed in a dark skirt and light waist. He said she was a blonde above five foot seven inches in height.

Mrs. Carman testified that on the night of the shooting she wore a blue tailored suit and white waist. Mrs. Carman is a blonde.

Don't ask us to explain how some men get by without working, although explanation is one of our favorite labors.

MANY TAKE UP EXTENSION WORK

Nearly 900 Have Registered Since Headquarters Was Established Here

In a report of the progress of the University Extension division in La Crosse, by Prof. W. P. Roseman, representative of the Third district, La Crosse, a number of interesting facts and figures are given out concerning the work of the extension division.

Of a total of 899 registrations in the home study department since the establishment of the division here three years ago, 266 have finished courses, 103 have taken up more than one course and 79 have withdrawn. Many of those who have withdrawn have received sufficient training for their particular work without taking the entire course.

A large number of the persons who have registered have been young men and women who found it necessary to discontinue their education for various reasons, and to take up study along trade lines. It is shown that forty per cent of the enrollment is in engineering subjects and 34 per cent in business subjects, making a total of 74 per cent taking practical subjects. The remaining 26 per cent took preparatory college work.

During the three years in which the division has been in La Crosse, 46 classes have been organized in the eight different places in this district. The majority of those classes have been organized in the utilitarian subjects, such as telephony, electric and magnetic circuits, plumbing, sheet metal drafting, dynamo operation, gas and steam engine operation, heating and ventilating, shop mathematics, mechanical drawing, bookkeeping, accounting, commercial law, pharmacy, chemistry and English. All but five of the classes were conducted in La Crosse.

In addition to the regular classroom work, many have been benefited by social centers established in the villages and by the package libraries circulated from the university.

PASSES BIRTHDAY VIRTUAL PRISONER

John D. Rockefeller Celebrates 75th Anniversary Under Armed Guard

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 8.—Under armed guard—a virtual prisoner on his own magnificent estate—John D. Rockefeller, oil king, the world's wealthiest man, today passed his 75th birthday.

It was not a happy birthday, despite all his millions. He was away from what is really home—Cleveland, where he has always passed his birthdays in comparatively happy fashion—because of importuning tax collectors. Harassed by I. W. W. agitators, he dared not venture out of his estate. Elaborate electrical burglar alarms, special guards and deputy sheriffs armed to the teeth, with vicious bloodhounds, watched over his estate.

A light breakfast at 7:30 was followed by a half hour perusal of mail which brought from wealthy friends the only token that he was having a birthday.

Eighteen holes at golf—his usual day's play—followed breakfast. Even here the wealthy old man was not free, for his guards with big revolvers followed like caddies.

During the past year the increase in organized labor among women in New York state has been 111 per cent.

WHO FIRED SHOT PUZZLES COURT

C. W. Watterson's Machine Is Damaged but No One Knows Who Is to Blame

Where did the shot come from which dented the back of C. W. Watterson's automobile?

That was the question before Judge Baldwin in the county court yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Watterson, who lives at 115 South Fourth street, says it came from the shooting gallery on Market square during the Home-Coming week. J. H. Ester, who owns the shooting parlor says it did not. He convinced Judge Baldwin that he was correct in his statements and Mr. Watterson lost the suit.

"I wish to add," said James Thompson, who represented Mr. Watterson, "that any person who conducts a shooting gallery should be sent to jail."

"This court cannot send the defendant to jail, and neither can it believe that the shot was fired from his shooting parlor. The judgment is in favor of the defendant."

Mr. Watterson asked for only $25 damages.

REPORT FOR JUNE MADE BY THOMPSON

Average Business Not as Good as in 1913, but Large Deals Bring the Total Up

Register of Deeds Andrew Thompson made his report this morning, covering the month of June. Instruments totalling as follows were filed at the register's office during June of this year:

Forty-three city deeds... $114,507
Thirty-one city mortgages... 25,438
Twenty-seven county deeds... 47,209
Twenty county mortgages... 42,230
Nine mortgages assigned... 33,239
Thirty-two mortgages satisfied... 42,846

Total... $305,469

Sixty city deeds... $136,316
Twenty-nine county deeds... 89,827
Twenty-eight city mtgs... 46,775
Eighteen county mtgs... 52,700

Total... $325,618

The 1914 table does not include the trust deed for $20,000,000 filed by the Wisconsin-Minnesota Gas and Electric company and the satisfaction of a $400,000 mortgage. Neither does the report include the sale of the Can company or Skidmore-Salzer real estate deal. In the last two instances the consideration was given as $1.00.

ARREST PLUMBER

FOND DU LAC, Wis., July 8.—Louis Sonntag of Sheboygan, secretary of the Wisconsin Master Plumbers' association, was arrested here today on a warrant issued by U. S. Commissioner Morse, in connection with the anti-trust prosecutions brought against the alleged plumbers' trust at Des Moines. Bail was fixed at $3,000.

JOHN C. BURNS IS BANK PRESIDENT

Chosen to Succeed Late John M. Holley at Head of La Crosse State Bank Yesterday

SON SUCCEEDS TO FATHER'S SEAT

John M. Holley Follows His Father Upon Board of Directors of Institution; Martin Vice President

John C. Burns was elected president of the State Bank of LaCrosse, to succeed the late John M. Holley, at the annual meeting of the bank yesterday afternoon. Mr. Burns has been vice president of the bank since December 2, 1910.

L. H. Martin, a director of the bank since July 7, 1910, was elected vice president.

Son Follows Father

The board of directors was re-elected, with the exception of the place formerly held by Mr. Holley. His son, John M. Holley, was placed on the directorate in the place of the late banker. The directorate consists of A. Bellerue, J. M. Holley, L. H. Martin, John C. Burns, H. A. Kroner, Joseph Miller and James Thompson.

John M. Holley was re-elected to his place as cashier and Paul T. Schulze was again chosen assistant cashier.

Resolutions were adopted in tribute to the memory of the dead president of the bank. The resolutions follow:

The Resolutions
"Whereas, John M. Holley, the president of this bank, and for a lifetime in its service, died at his home on the 19th day of June, 1914, it is fitting that we record upon our records a word in his memory."

"He was born at Lyons, New York, June 12th, 1845, the son of an old and honored family. He was a graduate of Hamilton college, a civil war veteran, a careful and high-minded banker, a patriotic and public-spirited citizen, a good father, a good husband, and, all in all, a good man. His character and his uprightness in all his dealings and in his management set an example for and was an inspiration to everyone connected with the bank; gave it an enviable standing, unquestioned reliability and a deserved and honorable growth and position in the community and in the state."

"Be it therefore resolved: That we express our heartfelt sorrow at his demise and extend our deepest and kindest sympathy to his family, to his many friends and to the many institutions with which he was connected. Let this resolution be spread upon our records and a copy thereof furnished to the family and to the press."

ARCTIC EXPLORERS REPORTED LOST

Eight of Most Important Men in Stefansson Party Disappear

OTTAWA, Ont., July 8.—That at least eight men of Stefansson's Canadian Arctic expedition left the steamer Karluk party after the boat sank in the Arctic and have not been heard from since, was the report received today from Captain Bartlett, via Nome, Alaska, to Deputy Minister Desbaretts of the maritime department. Fears are expressed that they perished.

The missing men are some of the most important in the Stefansson expedition, including First Officer Alexander Anderson of Fifehire, Scotland; Second Officer Charles Bartlett of Victoria, B. C.; two seamen from Victoria; Henry Bouchart, anthropologist of Paris, France; Dr. A. Forbes McKay, surgeon of the expedition of Edinburgh, Scotland; Lewis Murray of Foxfield, Hants, England, and two British sailors.

Captain Bartlett himself with a rescuing party, struggled over ice and water for three weeks to trace the party. They came across traces of caribou apparently shot for food, but they lost the trail near the Siberian coast.

BURROWS WINS SUIT OVER PARTNERSHIP

Fred Pfeiffer lost in the legal battle with H. S. Burroughs today. The two men, once in partnership, both started suits, which were later consolidated.

Mr. Pfeiffer must pay $2,500 in stock, with interest, and a half of the debts of the concern. The court also ruled that the partnership should be dissolved and that Mr. Burroughs was to have charge of the sale of all property.

REBELS GET INTO GUADALAJARA BY FIERCE FIGHTING

SALTILLO, Mexico, July 8.—"Our forces are within the city gates. Fighting is desperate, but I expect to capture the city in a few hours."

This official message was received by General Venustiano Carranza today from General Alvaro Obregon at Guadalajara, commanding the constitutional army of the northwest. Obregon's forces have just won a brilliant victory at Orendain. The "city" referred to is Guadalajara, the second largest in Mexico.

MANY INSURED IN STATE SAYS REPORT

One in Every Three a Policy Holder and a Half Have Industrial Policies

3,158 INDUSTRIAL DEATH CLAIMS

Amounted to $349,785; Many Fraternal Certificates Are Issued Throughout State

MADISON, Wis., July 8.—The report on life insurance in Wisconsin for 1913, just made by Insurance Commissioner Ekern, shows that the life companies and fraternal societies during the year paid death claims amounting to $5,827,876, and collected from policyholders and members $13,948,066. The number of death claims was 7,578 in a total of 806,178 policies and certificates.

Many Are Insured
There is thus one policy or certificate for every three persons out of the 2,500,000 persons in Wisconsin. Almost one-half of the total, or 391,313 policies, are the industrial ten-year policies, which are written wholly in cities and villages. The industrial death claims numbered 3,158, and amounted to $349,785, against $1,594,678.41 paid by the policyholders.

Next in numerical importance to the almost 400,000 industrial policies are the almost 250,000 fraternal certificates. The fraternal societies paid in death claims $2,521,852, against $3,511,068 collected from their members. The number of death claims was 2,788 out of 246,943 certificates.

The legal reserve life companies paid 1,275 death claims, amounting to $2,206,032. They collected $7,667,426 in premiums on 144,658 policies. In addition, the companies withdrawing from the state paid 358 death claims, amounting to $750,207 out of 25,254 policies on which $1,174,892 was paid in premiums.

Total Benefits
The total benefits promised in Wisconsin policies and certificates at the end of 1913, was $653,261,369, or about one-third of the total for the United States. Of this, the fraternal certificates promised nearly one-half, or $308,673,789. The legal reserve companies follow with $248,492,888, to which should be added the insurance in the withdrawing companies, amounting to $47,671,299. The industrial policies, almost half the number of the 800,000 policies and certificates, amount to $48,423,393, or less than one-thirtieth of the total amount of insurance in force in the state.

What They Paid Out

The life companies licensed in the state in 1913 paid out $82,422,789.25 for expenses, as against $99,741,358.52 paid for death claims and a total of $201,827,267.76 paid to policyholders. The withdrawing life companies paid out for expenses $34,577,549.17, as against $55,559,827.98 paid in death claims, and a total of $143,122,412.01 paid policyholders. The fraternal societies paid in expenses $12,753,456.21, against $55,195,192.06 paid in death claims, and a total of $57,373,822.24 paid policyholders.

The licensed legal reserve life companies in commissions and agents' expenses $52,051,349.54, and the withdrawing companies paid in commissions and expenses $18,883,545.07, while the fraternal societies paid in commission and agency and deputy expenses only $3,714,886.24. The licensed legal reserve companies paid in taxes $6,277,012.25, and charged off for losses and depreciation in assets $3,899,881.91. The withdrawing life companies paid in taxes $3,405,662.07 and charged off for losses and depreciation $1,560,786.96.

A PANNIER AND A FLARING COLLAR APPLIED TO A SMALL FROCK

The puffed effects are so perfectly suited to the flowered cottons and silks now favored that it is difficult to resist them for either grown-up or small frocks. Those of us who as a rule taboo anything fussy, are tempted this season to have at least one pannier for mid-summer afternoons. Foulard, which is unusually popular just now, is used with $404; the skirt is caught up in back over an underskirt of white and the drapery is designed to form two puffs directly in back. The cleverly cut yoke on the bodice is a pleasing feature and the vest and cuffs are attractive.

To copy this frock in size 36, 6 yard of 36-inch material is needed. And here in $409 we have the pannier applied to the small "dress-up" frock. The Japanese collar and the raglai shoulder are other "grown-up" touches that make the little dress effective. A flower-strewn voile is used with folded girdle and the collar and cuffs of plain pink taffetas which repeats the color of the flower in the voile. This dress requires for a child of 8 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material. Number $404—sizes 34 to 42. Number $409—sizes 8 to 14.

ANSWER FILED TODAY IN JANESVILLE CASE

MADISON, Wis., July 8.—The attorney general's office today filed an answer in the suit brought by Frank M. Jones as trustee for the bondholders of the Janesville Water company, who has sought to restrain the railroad commission from turning over the property to the city of Janesville under the indeterminate permit law. Attorney General Owen contended that the bondholders own about $186,500 of the securities of the water company. The company's property was valued two years ago at about $250,000. Mr. Owen declares there is no danger of the bondholders being defrauded and that the money will be paid in court if it cannot be determined to which party—the water company or the stockholders—it should be paid.

To Seal Bottles.

Bottles may be securely sealed in the following manner: Melt together a quarter of a pound of sealing wax, the same quantity of rosin and two ounces of beeswax. When the mixture froths stir it with a tallow candle. As soon as each ingredient is melted dip the tops of the corked bottles in the mixture. It will completely exclude the air.—National Magazine.

People With Thin Blood

Some people have a tendency to become thin-blooded just as others have an inherited tendency to rheumatism, or to nervous disorders. The condition in which the blood becomes so thin that the whole body suffers comes on so gradually and stealthily that anyone with a natural disposition in that direction should watch the symptoms carefully. Bloodlessness, or anaemia, as the medical term is, can be corrected much more easily in the earlier stages than later. It begins with a tired feeling that rest does not overcome, the complexion becomes pale, and breathlessness on slight exertion, such as going up stairs, is noticed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a home remedy that has been most successful in the treatment of diseases caused by thin blood. With pure air and wholesome food these blood-making pills afford the correct treatment when the symptoms described are noticed. A former sufferer from anaemia says: "I was emaciated and did not have a particle of color. I had severe headaches, had no ambition and could just drag around." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills quickly restored appetite, flesh and health. A full statement of this case with directions regarding diet will be found in the booklet, "Building Up the Blood," sent free by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

HAS NEW WAY TO BAIT THE POWERS

King Nicholas of Montenegro Plans to Leave Throne and Efface Kingdom

HE WANTS A BIG SLAV EMPIRE

Would Unite All the Slavs of Eastern Europe Against Austrian Empire

(By Henry Wood, Staff Correspondent of the United Press.)

CETTINGE, Montenegro, July 8.—King Nicholas of little Montenegro has just thought of a new plan for baiting the big European powers. Nicholas, during his long lifetime, has tried a great variety of amusements. He has been prince and poet; king and statesman; warrior and dramatist; musician and art connoisseur. He has made good at all of them, too. But two years ago he discovered that for real sport there is nothing to be compared with tantalizing the big powers and turning topsy-turvy the dignified diplomatic chancelleries of Europe.

Started in 1912.

King Nicholas first tried his hand at this in the fall of 1912. At the head of his little army he one day suddenly marched out of his capital of Cettinge and began swatting right and left at the Turkish garrisons on his southern frontier. The European powers were even more startled than the Turks and at once they threw a fit. The Balkans, they told Nicholas, were in that moment in an even more inflammable condition than usual. Any little overt act might destroy the greatest modern diplomatic masterpiece, the "status quo." Unheeding, King Nicholas swatted all the harder. Then the powers told him he might just as well quit anyway. Even if he conquered any territory, they wouldn't let him keep it, he was told. Greatly amused, Nicholas captured two more Turkish garrisons. Then in less than a week, he had forced the mobilization of all the Balkan armies, had forced a declaration of war from Turkey and had precipitated the conflict which wiped Turkey, after 500 years of misrule, off the face of Europe.

Took Scutari.

Before this was finally accomplished, King Nicholas once more waved the red flag in the face of the big powers. Scutari had once been the capital of Montenegro. Centuries ago it had gone down under the Turkish inundation. Nicholas decided he must have it back. The powers, for their own selfish ends, decided he mustn't. Nicholas began the long and bloody siege of the city. Nicholas took Scutari but the powers later deprived him of it. Now, King Nicholas has just received an even more tantalizing project. This involves nothing less than the abdication of his throne, the effacing from the map of Europe of the independent political state of Montenegro and its amalgamation with the growing Slav empire of Serbia. It means the end of a nation, but the aggrandizement of a people, Nicholas believes.

Blow to Austria.

For a century past, the separate political existence of Montenegro has been one of the pet projects of the powers. The Montenegrins are of the same ethnical Slav origin as the Servians, speak only the Serbian language, and are kept apart only through the machinations of Austria. They have joint ministry with Serbia. By keeping up this separate political existence from Serbia, Austria has hoped not only to prevent the formation of a big Slav empire on her southern border, which might not only one day be a national menace, but which would also block her own ambitions of extending Austrian territory through to a southern seaport on the Adriatic or the Aegean.

Way for Attainment.

However, just what Austria does not want is just what Nicholas does want, and his latest scheme of abdication seems to offer the only way for its attainment. There are now in the Balkan peninsula 13,000,000 Slavs. Since Serbia doubled its territory in the recent Balkan wars, she now has 5,000,000 of these within her own boundaries. Some 200,000 more comprise the population of Montenegro, while the remainder are in the Slav provinces of Dalmatia, Croatia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, which Austria has from time to time annexed. The aspiration of these 13,000,000 Slavs is to get all of these Slav provinces and states back into the common Slav fatherland which the Turks wiped out 500 years ago. United Serbia and Montenegro might accomplish this.

Other considerations have also moved King Nicholas to act at this time. Like the other Balkan states, Montenegro also added greatly to its territory as a result of the two recent Balkan wars. After centuries of misrule by the Turks these new provinces are in a deplorable condition. Large sums are necessary for their immediate development, and this King Nicholas has no way of obtaining. United, however, to Serbia this would come in for all of the improvements which that country has under way for its new acquisitions. Then, too, Nicholas is worried about the matter of succession. He is not at all certain that Prince Danilo could keep up the integrity of the state as it should be.

Matter of Revenge.

In addition, Nicholas is not a little desirous of "getting back" at the powers not only on his own behalf but on behalf of Serbia and the Slav people generally. This he would most effectively do by amalgamating the two kingdoms. The powers unjustly deprived Serbia of a seaport on the Adriatic, to which she was entitled after the Balkan wars. Montenegro has two seaports there and if these passed into the hands of Serbia it would be an awful blow to the European chancelleries. The two ports on the Adriatic combined with port rights at Salonika on the Aegean, which Serbia succeeded finally in wresting from the powers, would easily make the new Slav empire the dominating factor in the Balkans. The army of 500,000 men which the combined Montenegrin and Serbian forces could muster might also make possible the eventual getting back from Austria of the four Slav provinces which she still holds.

MAIN STREET, AT FOURTH

NEW HIGH SCHOOL ASSURED AT SPARTA

SPARTA, Wis., July 8.—The erection of a new high school building for Sparta, to be built on a site at least two blocks square, was authorized at the annual school meeting held Monday evening.

The sum of $15,000 was appropriated for the purchase of a lot and a committee, to report at the next meeting, appointed to select the location.

For the past six years or longer the question of more room for the high school department has been discussed with no results. This year the report of Principal Bray and the various members of the board of education brought this much needed demand to a point, E. A. Richardson, on behalf of the board of education, presented a resolution, calling for an addition to the central ward building to cost $60,000 and for the use of the present high school building for the grade purposes. After a discussion by Colonel Robert B. McCoy, Senator Teasdale, Superintendent Haney, Carl Beebe, Spencer Beebe, Dr. V. F. Stiles and others, it was deemed a wiser plan to purchase a separate piece of ground to contain not less than two blocks, which would give sufficient room for athletic fields, and for the erection of a new and modern high school building, with gymnasium, auditorium and departments especially prepared for domestic science, manual training, commerce and agriculture.

In pursuance of the request the board's resolution was withdrawn, and another offered in its place by Judge McCoy, to the effect that four men, each from different wards, were to be chosen by the chairman to act with the board of education. The sum of $15,000 was then voted this committee to purchase a site, the committee to report at the next school meeting one month from Monday. The resolution appropriating the $15,000 was carried by a vote of 99 to 25.

Louis T. Hill was chosen clerk to succeed himself by the unanimous consent of the electors assembled. The meeting adjourned to meet in four weeks' time, which will be on Monday, August 3, at 8 o'clock.

The clerk's report, Principal F. C. Bray's report, and the financial report were presented by the clerk of the board of education, Louis T. Hill.

Upon recommendation of the board of education, the following resolutions were passed: That $24,000 was to be raised by tax for the coming school year; the sum of $325 was appropriated for the purpose of employing a clerk for the supervising principal; another thousand dollars was voted for the repairs on the West primary, and two thousand more was voted for additional repairs on other school buildings. The board of education was also given power to take out tornado insurance, to the extent of $50,000.

SMART FROCKS OF SILK AND COTTON

LATEST FASHION NOTES

FROM THE FASHION CENTERS

THE early summer races are not alone among the smartest social events of the season, they also point the way to the coming fashions and are quite certain to reveal the newest and the latest. Just now it is interesting to note that between the cabled account of what is worn in Paris and the report of the costumes that were seen at Piping Rock, there is so little difference as to emphasize again the nearness of the fashion centers and to bring an acute realization of how little time is lost between appearance on one side of the sea and the other. Piping Rock, to be sure, is one of the most exclusive race courses and, of course, emphasizes the feature but perhaps is doubly interesting because of that fact.

Evidently the basque idea is growing; also it is evident that the day of the exaggeratedly narrow skirt is on the wane. One of the newest models shows a long full tunic either plaited or gathered or cut flaring to produce fullness. Paris is wearing a great many entire skirts that are accordion plaited and it is evident that, by the coming of another season, plaits will have returned to their own, although just what form they will take, what the degree of fullness will be, yet remains to be determined.

The basque idea indeed will undergo a great many changes before it becomes fairly established. The earlier evidences of the fashion that give the mediaeval or modified mediaeval lines are somewhat severe, by no means generally becoming and, while they are exploited, while they are worn by women who are on the outlook for the newest model, it is probable that the ideal will undergo many changes and show many variations. Already we are seeing fascinating little blouses with short basque extensions to be worn over the skirts and we may look for the idea to be developed but, since the plaited skirt and the basque hardly go hand in hand, bodices that terminate at the waist line will be equally smart and all forms of girle and sash will retain their favor.

Happily for the present generation, fashions mean variety in these days. We are not at all likely to consent to return to the period when one style only was exhibited and one must wear that or appear bizarre. Those of us who have found the Japanese bodices a real delight need feel no apprehension. The idea is likely to be combined with the new features and by no means to disappear.

Just at the moment, sleeveless over-blouses and sleeveless coats are greatly liked and unquestionably are practical for warm weather wear. Almost every kind of over-blouse is to be met and, since the over-blouse can be used to produce very charming and picturesque effects, it must be welcome.

Flaring collars retain all their vogue too but they are constantly undergoing variations. The newest partake of the Elizabethan period but the pretty flaring collar that is variously known as Normandy and Gladstone continues to be exceedingly smart. The very newest materials for their making are pique for the simpler blouses and suits and faille silk for the handsome ones and, since both are ribbed, it is after all the one idea developed in two fabrics.

Somewhat unusual combinations of materials are being seen but, however unusual, always effective. At Piping Rock, for example, was met a costume combining silk gabardine with chiffon, the color being one of the new blues known as Corbeau. The skirt of the gabardine was plain and narrow but not exaggeratedly so. The tunic and sleeveless bodice were of chiffon accordion plaited and the long close-fitting sleeves matched the skirt. The neck opening formed a deep V at the front and was finished with a flaring collar of the Elizabethan order made of white faille edged with plaited net while the girdle and shaped band a little below the waist line were of the gabardine, which, almost needless to say, was of the light weight silk sort especially designed for summer wear. The same costume might be developed in taffeta in place of the gabardine. The essential features are the long, slightly shaped tunic and the over-blouse laid in close full plaits together with the sleeveless bodice and faille collar.

One of the smartest costumes showing the favorite Roman stripes was of silk and wool material combined with dark prune colored taffeta. The stripes made the under skirt and rather close-fitting bodice showing long plain sleeves and the taffeta the extremely deep straight gathered tunic and wide girdle that extends quite to the bust line and terminated in sash ends at the back. The lower edge of the skirt, the edges of the tunic, sleeves and girdle were all finished with frills of the taffeta and the Medici collar was of white pique.

One of the newest costumes that has reached these shores from across the sea is of pale dove colored gabardine, a shade and a material among the smartest to be seen, and it combines an accordion plaited skirt with a long redingote that is the very latest cry of fashion and which is claimed to be the herald of redingote styles for the autumn. The coat in this instance is cut off at the waist line in front, lengthened abruptly at the sides somewhat after the manner of a man's evening suit while at the back it reaches almost to the edge of the skirt.

The genuine mediaeval basques with flounced skirts are meeting with ready favor and are extremely attractive when the basque is not too severe. A rather handsome model exploited recently shows a close-fitting basque, or what was once called a jersey, of flet lace over a foundation of black satin while the two deep flounces that form the skirt are of Malines lace and there is a sash of black arranged between the two while the neck of the corsage is made square over a chemisette of white organdie that is cut to form a deep V and this V is finished with a ruche of black tulle and black tulle as a neck finish is one of the new and interesting features of recent models.

The skirt is cut in two portions and when the flare is wanted, wedge-shaped pieces are inserted at the side seams. If the plain narrow skirt is wanted, the seams are stitched for the entire length. The pockets, too, are optional, although almost every woman will be glad to welcome them. For general summer wear, linen éponge is one of the best possible materials but it is easy to think of this skirt made of serge or gabardine for travelling and occasions of the sort or from plain linen or galatea or any similar material. In the back view, the gown is shown made of white linen with trimming of apple green, making a very dainty, summerlike effect.

TAFFETA has become essentially a summer silk. In its thin, chiffon quality, it is delightfully cool and satisfactory to wear, it does not rumple, sheds the dust and has many advantages, so that its favor easily can be accounted for. In the third illustration, the silk is white and there is a conventionalized flower-design, the leaves of which are a pale green and this green is repeated in the trimming of the neck and sleeves. The little chemisette is of organdie. If a daintier gown were wanted, pure white taffeta could be used or taffeta in a color; or foulard or crepe would be pretty in this way while embroidered crepe could be treated exactly after the manner illustrated. In the back view, the sleeves are shown to the wrists and a great many women are wearing them long even in mid-summer but Fashion is generous and allows a choice. The skirt is all in one piece draped to give breadth over the hips and a suggestion of the bustle effect at the back. The blouse is a very new and attractive one with raglan sleeves. There are so few seams in the entire gown that it is very simple and easy to make while it would be difficult to find a more fashionable design.

May Manton

NEVER were cotton stuffs so lovely as they are this season and never was it so easy to have charming costumes. Here is one that is smart in the extreme yet so simple that any girl can make them in a short space of time and, when a girl can make her own frocks, she will not fail to have a generous number.

The dress to the left is made of striped éponge with plain white linen collar and cuffs. It is exceedingly practical as well as exceedingly fashionable but, if for any reason the entire dress of striped material is not liked, it can be given quite a different effect by the use of plain color for the blouse while the skirt is of striped or by some similar combination. There is only one seam in the skirt and the sleeves that are joined to the yoke below the shoulder line dispense with the need of fitting to the armholes.

THE second costume combines a blouse of plain white crepe with a skirt of white crepe showing flowers embroidered in really brilliant colors. It is exceedingly dainty and summer-like yet it gives just the bright color note that is so dominant this season. The skirt is of the one-piece sort but draped most effectively with a short tunic that can be of the same or of a contrasting material while the blouse is in just two pieces with the edges overlapped at front and back.

UNDOUBTEDLY the light weight silks are to be fashionable throughout the summer and they really are ideal for warm weather wear. They shed the dust, they are cool and they are always pretty.

The third costume is made of summer taffeta in black and white check with old blue. The touch of linen on the silk is exceedingly dainty and exceedingly smart and the costume is altogether a most unusual one. It is very simple too and it can be put together without the least bit of trouble. The coat is in kimono style, requiring absolutely no fitting, and the skirt is laid in plaits to give the peg top effect.

FASHIONABLE GOWNS OF SILK AND LINEN

Pockets and Flare at the Lower Edge Make New Features of Fashionable Skirts.

UNQUESTIONABLY yellow is one of the most fashionable colors of the season and the first is a blouse of handkerchief linen in a really beautiful shade that is worn with a skirt of linen éponge showing touches of the same color. The two together make a thoroughly satisfactory costume for summer mornings and one that is smart at the same time. In this case, there is worn over the skirt a deep pointed girdle of the material but that feature can always be determined by each woman for herself, the skirt and blouse each being complete in itself. The skirt is one of the favorite ones that consists of one big piece laid in plaits to provide drapery and breadth. The blouse is a most satisfactory one that would be pretty in any fashionable material, crepe, voile, batiste or crepe de chine, quite as well as the handkerchief linen. The skirt can be copied in any seasonable material, for the model is a good one for taffeta and for foulard as well as for linen.

THE latest designs for practical skirts are many of them showing inserted pockets and flare at the lower edge and both features are much to be desired for walking, for golf and for all outdoor occupations. The second skirt includes also a fitted yoke that is exceedingly smart and can be made with or without suspenders. The blouse that is worn with it is a new one also with a plain yoke and sleeves cut in one and full lower portions. As shown here, the skirt is made of éponge showing lines of green on a white ground and the blouse is of handkerchief linen and the materials are among the smartest and best liked of the summer, but every reader will recognize the fact that materials and combinations can be varied again and again. For the practical blouse, handkerchief linen, crepe and voile are the preferred materials but this model could be made from organdie or from crepe de chine and become adapted to different uses. Since the sleeves can be either three-quarter or full length, they suit all needs and all occasions.

RITCHIE LOSES TITLE TO WELSH

Unable to Administer a Knockout Blow; Loses on Points to Speed of Briton

WELSH PILES UP LEAD EARLY

First Rounds All for Gael; Ritchie Comes Back in Later Sessions; Fails at Punch

LONDON, July 8.—Freddie Welsh won the lightweight championship of the world last night by besting Willie Ritchie in twenty rounds by decision. Unprejudiced experts today agreed that Welsh beyond a doubt earned the decision which carried with it the championship.

Although all resident Americans and tourists who witnessed the fight were bitterly disappointed that Ritchie should have lost his title on a decision, it was admitted that Welsh had piled up such a lead in the early rounds of last night's fight that it was impossible for Willie to win unless he administered a knockout.

Ritchie rallied remarkably in the last four rounds, but even his stiff punches, always carrying more sting and inflicting greater damage than Welsh's, were not sufficient to offset the Welshman's earlier points and strategic defense.

"My greatest concern was to avoid Ritchie's right punch," said Welsh today. "He has improved greatly in delivering this blow and therefore I played safe from start to finish."

Ritchie took his defeat gamely today. "I haven't any excuse to offer," the former champion said. "I was simply beaten by a quicker, cleverer man."

No date has yet been fixed for the return match which Ritchie, with far-sighted caution, stipulated in the fight articles should be granted. The articles provided that this return match should occur in the fall.

Odds Raised

For a week prior to the contest odds have been 6 to 4 on Welsh, but at the ringside last night hundreds of Welsh men who had traveled 150 miles to see their idol annex the title literally threw their savings at Ritchie's manhood and forced odds up to 7 to 4, even as high as 2 to 1 on Welsh.

Perhaps not the least remarkable thing of all was that the instant the final gong sounded the wildest pandemonium ever heard broke out. In the next second Welsh's seconds had literally thrown Welsh's wife over the ropes into the ring and into the new champion's arms. At the same instant at least a hundred men in evening clothes were through the ropes, fighting each other to be the first to embrace and kiss Welsh.

Ritchie and Referee Corri were both literally shoved out of the ring onto the floor. Ten thousand raving madmen were hurled down and out of the balconies, over the chairs, in one mad effort to get to the ring and shake hands with their new champion.

In Ritchie's dressing room was the most pathetic scene ever encountered. Here were the faithful Leonard Hicks, trying to undo the gloves Ritchie was extending toward him; Emil Thiry, Willie's manager, sitting on a chair in the corner, sobbing like a child, and the three seconds, who had been Willie's sparring partners, standing around balancing first on one foot and then the other, trying to appear unconcerned.

White Claims Title
DENVER, July 8.—"It is great to be at the top of the lightweight class and believe me, I am not going to let it go if I can help it. It will be my plans, as lightweight champion, to meet any and all contenders for the title wherever promoters offer satisfactory inducements."

This is what Charlie White, Chicago lightweight, said to the United Press while discussing Ritchie's defeat. "While I am sorry to see an American lose to an Englishman the result of the London battle can only make my claim as legitimate lightweight champion so much the stronger. For my part, I hold that, as I was given an unanimous decision over Ritchie, beating him much farther than Welsh did, the London bout was not a championship affair."

"In order to clear up any controversy I am ready to meet Welsh as soon as we can get together on dates. I would prefer to meet Welsh in this country but if he insists I will box him in his own backyard."

STARS

HOW RITCHIE LOST HIS TITLE AS SEEN FROM RINGSIDE AT OLYMPIA

Round One

The men shook hands cordially as they stepped back to corners and at the gong each bounded out briskly with the evident intention of starting hostilities in the other fellow's corner.

They met in the middle of the ring. Welsh led first with a straight left which Ritchie blocked and they clinched in mid-ring. Ritchie broke away and swung his right. Welsh stepped inside the swing and they clinched. On the break Welsh sent in three short arm jabs to the champion's stomach before Ritchie straightened him up with a right swing to the head. Welsh stepped in close and again shot a short left and right to Ritchie's stomach. They sparred and Welsh ended the round with a hard left to the head, which rocked Ritchie. Welsh's round.

Round Two

Welsh rushed matters in the second and landed light lefts and rights to Ritchie's jaw without a return. Ritchie rushed and ran into a heavy left to the jaw. Ritchie swung right for Welsh's head but Freddie stepped inside and peppered the champion's mid-section with short arm punches. Ritchie had not scored at the bell. Welsh's round.

Round Three

Ritchie forced matters at the opening of the third, but was wild. He swung left for Welsh's jaw but Freddie stepped back and the swing was an inch away. The round ended even.

Round Four

Welsh swung left to Ritchie's jaw. Ritchie countered with a hard left swing. Ritchie again landed right hard to face. Welsh sent the champion's head back with four straight left jabs without a return. Ritchie bowed in trying for a swing and landed a heavy left to Welsh's jaw at the gong. The punch jarred the Briton. It was Ritchie's best round so far.

Round Five

Welsh opened the round sparring, obviously counting on stacking up points. Ritchie, who seemed to be getting the range, landed a hard left to the jaw and followed with a right swing to the body.

Welsh danced out of range and made Ritchie miss two heavy swings. They mixed in the middle of the ring and Ritchie drew first blood with an overhand right which connected with Fred's eye. Welsh tore in at the finish forcing the champion back under a perfect rain of short arm blows to the stomach and took the honors for the round.

Round Seven

Welsh swung right hard to the jaw and Ritchie attempted to box. Freddie repeated with a right to the jaw and they clinched. Welsh had all the best of it in the clinches. Ritchie being unable to protect his stomach from Freddie's short arm jabbing. Ritchie swung right hard but Welsh countered with left to head and danced out of range. The Britisher's boxing completely outclassed Ritchie's. Welsh's foot work was marvelous. Welsh's round.

Round Eight

Ritchie swung into a clinch and Welsh immediately resumed work on the American's mid-section. Welsh drove Ritchie back to the ropes with a fusillade of rights and lefts to the stomach. Ritchie swung left to Fred's head, but the Welshman was going away. Ritchie rushed and in the clinch was worsted as he attempted to fight away. Welsh's round.

Round Nine

Ritchie resumed his right swings for Welsh's head. Freddie ducked three wild ones and stepping in close swung and left heavily to Ritchie's jaw. Ritchie attempted to rough matters and the crowd hooted. Ritchie held in a clinch and the crowd booed. As they broke from a clinch Ritchie landed right lightly and swung left sharply to Welsh's head. Welsh's round.

Round Ten

Ritchie led with his left and missed. Welsh planted three heavy lefts to Ritchie's body. Ritchie twice tried left uppercuts, but missed both times. They clinched and again Welsh made Ritchie look like an amateur at in-fighting. The constant battering at his stomach was telling on Ritchie and he looked worried as he took his corner. Welsh's round.

At the end of the tenth round the fight was Welsh's on points by a wide margin. Ritchie apparently realizing his inability to cope with the Briton as a boxer had tried continuously for a knockout with right and left swings. His plan of attack had been absolutely frustrated by the wonderful foot work and defense of Welsh.

Round Eleven

Welsh rushed, planting hard left to the jaw and driving the champion to the ropes. The whirlwind attack baffled Ritchie, who covered and hurried to safety. Welsh failed to follow his advantage and Ritchie recovered quickly, forced the fighting and whaling away with rights and lefts forced Welsh to break ground and cover. Welsh was apparently nettled at the sudden recovery of Ritchie and gave way before the latter's smashing attack. Round even.

Round Twelve

Welsh led with a straight left to Ritchie's jaw and the champion came back with a similar punch. Ritchie swung a hard left to the body. Welsh swung left to the champion's stomach and they clinched. Ritchie broke quickly and forced the fighting but Welsh's foot work took him out of harm's way. Welsh outboxed the champion in the last of the round and had a shade at the finish.

Round Thirteen

Ritchie rushed Welsh into the latter's corner with a smashing right and left blows to the body, forcing him to clinch. Welsh jabbed with his left for Ritchie's jaw, but the champion covered successfully and forced Welsh to the defensive. Ritchie swung his right to Welsh's eye and followed with two hard lefts to the jaw. Welsh appeared to weaken, under the champion's rushes and it was Ritchie's round by a wide margin.

Round Fourteen

Ritchie rushed matters in an effort to continue the lead gained in the previous round. Welsh fought back desperately and there was much punishment delivered by both boys. Ritchie jabbed Welsh with his left and swung his right across connecting safely. The punch hurt the Welshman. Welsh battered Ritchie's stomach as the latter fought frantically out of a clinch. Ritchie again swung his right heavily to Welsh's head. Welsh was fighting toe and toe with the champion at the bell. Ritchie's round.

Round Fifteen

They rushed into a clinch. Welsh was willing to hold but Ritchie broke away. Ritchie appeared the fresher of the two and shaded Welsh on an exchange of short arm body blows on the breakaway. Welsh tried a left swing to the head and repeated a moment later with a sard left to the jaw which shook Ritchie. They clinched and both appeared tired. Even round.

Round Sixteen

Ritchie forced Welsh about the ring with jabs to the body and swings for the head. Welsh put left hard to the jaw and broke as Ritchie forced the milling. Welsh tried right for the head and missed. They mixed and Ritchie outslugged the Britisher. Ritchie put right and left to Welsh's body and Welsh swung right sharply to Ritchie's ear. Ritchie forced the fighting to the end of the round and appeared much the fresher of the two. Ritchie's work showed considerable improvement. He made Welsh miss several times. Ritchie's round.

Round Seventeen

Welsh rushed in close and attempted to resume his successful in-fighting. Ritchie fought out of a clinch and swung left heavily to the jaw. Welsh clinched and on the break Ritchie swung right hard to body and was on top of his man swinging right and left to the body at the bell. Welsh was using all his cleverness of foot to keep out of range. Ritchie's round.

Round Eighteen

Ritchie rushed Welsh into a neutral corner swinging alternate right and left to body. Welsh broke ground.

Switzerland in America—Glacier National Park

Glacier National Park is in Northwestern Montana. It is the most talked about region in the country today. It seems to be the one place most desired by Summer Tourists who delight in the outdoor life.

It's a curious thing how one can be induced to visit Switzerland, beautiful as it is, before exploring the wonders of Glacier National Park.

Within the Park, comfortable quarters are to be had at Glacier Park Hotel and the various chalet camps; and the Glaciers, the lofty mountains, the crystal lakes filled with bamey trout; the atmosphere of bigness ruling everywhere, are wonders never to be forgotten.

Those in charge of Glacier Park have seen to it that the cost of visiting and living there is not excessive, and I would like to give you some of our illustrated booklets which tell you all about it, and about the cost of going there and seeing all there is to see.

If you will call or send me your address, I will gladly send you copies free of charge and answer all questions about the Park that you may wish to ask.

Ritchie outboxed Welsh in mid-ring mixup. Ritchie landed two hard left jabs to Welsh's jaw. Welsh clinched and held. Welsh weakening. Ritchie forced fighting to the bell. Ritchie's round.

Round Nineteen

Round Twenty

Welsh rushed Ritchie trying by brilliant boxing to make up for his sorry showing in the last few rounds. Ritchie tried desperately for a knockout, and though he straightened the Welshman twice was unable to connect with swings to the jaw. Ritchie was forced to the ropes by Welsh but the latter's rally was short lived and the champion was pressing Freddie back at the bell. It was an even round.

Best Low Price Farm HERE'S ONE FOR YOU.

80 acres up, improved and unimproved. We own 50,000 acres in Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana and Colorado, to be closed out almost at our own price and terms. Unheard of bargains! Where timothy and clover grow most as tall as your head. If you want land don't wait a minute; write now for your copy of 16 page pamphlet quoting wholesale prices and giving legal descriptions on everything; big farms and little ones. If you want the choice, send telegram or come. I also offer rare bargains in best registered live stock, prize winners in any show. Address Owner, W. W. Hurd, President Great Northern Land & Stock Co., 315 Commerce Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD BY HAL SHERIDAN

The Pirates wined the Giants as they flitted by, enroute to St. Louis and broke the triple tie for the leadership of the second division in the National.

Pittsburgh occupies the fifth berth all alone today with the Dodgers and Phillies now tied for sixth. Fred Clarke's crew hit Rube Marquard for a single and two triples in the third inning, which was enough to convince McGraw that Rube wasn't fooling any one in Pittsburgh and he was lifted.

Ayres worked seven for Washington against the Browns and allowed but one hit. In the meantime James and Leverage were being hammered with regularity.

This broke the tie for fifth place in the Ban Johnson circuit. Boston now has undisputed title to the place.

Whatever is left of the Baltimore International league club after Jack Dunn gets through selling men off, the Federals may be welcome too.

Birdie Cree is to resume operations as a New York Yankee and Manager Herzog of Cincinnati has purchased infielder Derrick and Outfielder Twombly from Dunn.

Marriage may be a lottery; but a man can buy only one ticket at a time.

CONFESSES ATTACK ON INFANT GIRL

CHICAGO, July 8.—Boswell C. F. Smith, held by the police as the ravisher and murderer of 4 year old Hazel Weinstein, today confessed, according to Police Captain Ryan, Smith carried the child from an alley near her home yesterday. He said he had stumbled over her. She died a few minutes later. Smith is said by the police to be a degenerate.

Chase around with a sneer on your face, and people will wish a lot of trouble on you.

STRIKERS MILITANT

PITTSBURG, July 8.—Angered by reports that Westinghouse interests had opened employment bureaus in Cleveland, Detroit, Philadelphia, Altoona and other cities in an effort to secure strikebreakers for their plants at East Pittsburgh and Turtle Creek, strikers were reported to have resorted to militancy to keep workers from entering the electrical plant at East Pittsburgh today.

DOLAN FUNERAL FRIDAY
The funeral of Patrick Dolan, retired farmer of Cashton, who died yesterday morning at a local hospital, will be held Friday morning at 10:30 at the Pine Hollow church at Cashton.

Court Finds Use for Autos.
A good story is told of the introduction of motor lorries into Afghanistan. H. M. the Amir called a special durbar to discuss the formation of a Motor Lorry company of which he would be managing director, and explained what an impetus to trade a motor service would be. At present a valuable market for fruit, etc., was lost through the length of the journey to Peshawur. A motor lorry would cover the distance in a couple of days, and the return for the expenditure would be immediate. As managing director his majesty would pay half the cost of the lorries and the durbar could subscribe the rest. The scheme was unanimously approved, and no opposition was raised to a proviso by the Amir that the lorries should be available whenever the court was moving. Ten motor lorries were bought, and the durbar, it is said, are still wondering when they will be free from the requirements of the court and will be available to carry produce to Peshawur.

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The stock market opened steady with little change in prices from Tuesday's close.

11 a. m.—An advancing movement set in soon after the opening, but was checked toward the end of the first hour by a recurrence of the weakness in Missouri Pacific. There was little buying of standard issues on the slight recession in prices.

Noon.—Trading was quiet at noon, but the tone of the market appeared to be good. Weakness in Missouri Pacific, New Haven and C. & C. produced comparatively little effect upon the general list.

2 p. m.—In the early afternoon the market was at a standstill, except for a declining movement in Missouri Pacific and other Gould issues. Chesapeake & Ohio was also weak.

The stock market closed good.

RUN DOWN TWICE IN SHORT TIME

ERIE, Pa., July 8.—Five persons are confined in a hospital here today after being run down twice by railroad trains. While Leopold Guerreine with four other persons in his automobile was crossing the Lake Shore tracks, the machine was struck by a train, and the occupants seriously hurt. William McArdle carried the victims to his touring car and rushed for a hospital. At the Nickel Plate tracks the machine plunged through lowered gates and was hit by a freight, the victims of the first accident again being dashed to the ground. Miss Madeline Cooper is probably fatally injured.

CUTS WIFE'S THROAT

CROSBY, Minn., July 8.—While seven terrified children looked on, Eli Vallancourt, a laborer, early this morning cut his wife's throat with a razor, then made his escape. The woman died.

keep track of the growing boys in his town he is becoming old.

GIRL HELPS LOVER TO BREAK JAIL

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., July 8.—Francisco Sciottio, recently acquitted on a white slavery charge in the federal court at Milwaukee, and immediately rearrested by Sheriff Dyckes on a charge of abduc for inducing Mary Difiori, 14, of Iron Mountain, to go with him to Milwaukee, sawed his way to liberty early today from the county jail.
The saw was given him by the girl on one of her visits to the jail. She was arrested and admitted her guilt.

SHOOTS CLIENT TO WIN CASE

ALTON, Ill., July 8.—To win a case Attorney William J.
Jones shot his client, H. P.
Madrey, in court.

Madrey was accused of firing
a deadly weapon at Mary Smith. He produced a wheezy air gun which he said was the weapon involved, and while denying that he had fired at the woman told his attorney to take a few shots at him. Madrey smiled as the bullets bounced off his skin. The jury acquitted him.

THOMPSON TO HAVE FIGHT FOR OFFICE

Andrew Thompson is to have opposition at the coming election.
Nomination papers for the office of

LA CROSSE GIRL IS WINNER IN CONTEST

Miss Mayme Richards, 518 North Seventh street, won the five pound box of candy offered by the Funke Candy company to the person who made the closest guess on the number of beans contained in a jar. The jar was displayed with the Made-in-La Crosse exhibit of the concern in the Boyer-Furber window. Miss Richards' guess was 739 and there were 802 beans in the jar. Guesses were made by persons living all over the United States, and here for the home-coming.

Not New to Her.

A party of Clevelanders entertained some holiday visitors recently, and having showed them everything interesting in Cleveland proper, they had to take them out to Newburg for a view of the asylum. The superintendent was in a genial frame of mind, and he conducted the bunch personally. "Here is a queer case, ladies," he said, pausing at a particular cell. "This man has the delusion that he possesses the motive power that runs the universe. He is perfectly harmless, but he actually believes that without him the world would not move.
Strange notion, isn't it?" "Why, not at all!" exclaimed one of the women.
"My husband has the same idea, and he always has had it. Is he crazy, too?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

It is funny how we can always tell when other people are making mistakes, and yet have a tough time getting along ourselves.

BELIEF GROWS THAT PETRAS WILL WIN

GENEVA, Ill., July 8.—"We, the defense, demand the acquittal or death of Tony Petras," declared George Carbery, one of the lawyers for Petras, in his closing argument in the trial today of the Austrian for the murder of Theresa Hollander, his former sweetheart, in the village grave yard.

With the final arguments of the state ended the case will go to the jury this afternoon.

The belief that Petras will be acquitted is gaining ground. The entire case against him is one of circumstantial evidence.

Appropriated Her Tea.
The most embarrassing moment of my life was when touring in Ireland
I stepped from our train on to the platform at Athlone and saw a boy running along the platform with a cup of tea and bread and butter. "How much is it?" says it. "Sixpence," he says.

I was devouring it ravenously when a lady with two children thrust her head out of the next compartment.
Looking at me angrily and yet good naturedly, she said: "That's a mean Yankee trick. I ordered that at the station above to meet me here."—Exchange.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

Sufferers from Tuberculosis often think that medicine will not help them. Fresh air, regular habits and good food aid in restoring health, but more is often needed. Many have been restored to health by Eckman's Alternative. Read this:

"Gentlemen:—Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia, which developed into Tuberculosis (bacilli were found).
In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive. On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Now I am strong and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator."

VILLA'S ARMY IS SHOWN IN ACTION

First Motion Pictures of Army in Actual Battle Shown at the Majestic

T. Tennyson Neely, publisher, traveler and an authority on Mexico, devotes today and tomorrow at the Majestic theater to General Villa's army in action. It is the first presentation of an army in actual battle in motion pictures. Mr. Neely's descriptions accompany the various vivid scenes which make them realistic and most thrilling. The capturing of cities and ports and the inspection of arms and baggage by General Villa, constitute the main pictures of real war in Mexico. The retreat of the federals and the flight of over 4,500 refugees across the Rio Grande river after the battle of Ojinaga (pronounced Owanaga) is the most vivid panorama of warfare ever seen. General Villa is shown inspecting his army and reviewing the same after a victorious engagement, also at pistol practice. Mr. Neely states that Villa is the Human Tiger of Mexico and the most vicious vindictive revengeful villain of the time.

Mr. Neely gave the audience Villa's toast which is:
"I hope to live to eat the beef which will fatten on the grass that will grow on the graves of all my enemies."

The motion pictures of Villa's army will only be shown for the next two days. On Friday and Saturday Mr. Neely will present an entire change of Mexican program and show the prehistoric ruins, the manners and customs of the rich and the poor.

MANAGER'S HOME WRECKED BY BOMB

WAKEFIELD, Mass., July 8.—A bomb hurled through the kitchen window of the home of Richard S.
Stout, a superintendent at the Heywood Brothers & Wakefield company, early today completely shattered part of the house. Stout and his two sons, sleeping on the floor above, escaped serious injury. An attempt was made last month to blow up the New York office of the company, which is experiencing a strike.

Chinese As Engineers.

It was for years supposed that when China was once opened to railway construction many opportunities for profitable employment would occur there for European and American engineers. But these opportunities are fast dwindling away. China has followed the example of Japan, and in carrying out the works of western civilization which it is so rapidly adopting, it is as far as possible putting the work in charge of Chinese engineers, many of whom have been educated in the best schools of Europe and the United States.—Engineering

To Bed Late in the Morning.

Even in these matter-of-fact days parliament is still a weird and wonderful thing to country cousins in England. "I spent the week-end," says a gallery sketch writer, in a southern town. "What time do you start work at the house?" asked an old friend, a native. "Three o'clock," I replied,
"and we finish at eleven." "Ah," commented the native, "I've often heard that parliament meets during the night so as not to be disturbed by the traffic, but it must seem a bit queer to be walking home to bed at eleven in the morning."

MERCHANTS TO TRY AND KEEP LIGHTS

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Retail Merchants' association held at the La Crosse club this morning it was decided to keep the electric light arches over Main street until after fair week, if possible. A committee will be named by Henry N. Boehm, president of the association, to secure the money necessary.
About $350 will be needed.

REBELS WIN FIGHT LAST 36 HOURS

Obregon Surprises Federal Column on Sortie from Guadalajara and Annihilates It

ORENDAIN, Jalisco, Mexico, July 8.—After 36 hours of savage fighting, the constitutional forces of Gen. Alvaro Obregon have utterly routed a strong federal column which attempted a sortie from Guadalajara Sunday night. Tuesday noon the federals, numbering from 5,000 to 6,000 fled southward in an effort to return to Guadalajara.

BRINGS CATTLE HERE ON BARGE

A reminder of the old days when the Mississippi was the main highway for all traffic along the valley came down the river yesterday afternoon in the shape of a big barge loaded with ten young steers brought to La Crosse from Dakota by Dave DeColan, stock raiser with a farm on the Wisconsin side, opposite the village.

The illusion of the old times was somewhat destroyed by the fact that the barge was towed by a gasoline launch, and the knowledge that the steers were consigned to the new Farmers' Co-operative Packing plant.
